KKR MAKE IT TO QUALIFIER 2

Kolkata Knight Riders cruised to a four-wicket victory in an 'eliminator', which dashed Virat Kohli's dream of winning an IPL trophy while leading Royal Challengers Bangalore. KKR will meet Delhi Capitals in the second qualifier on Wednesday at Sharjah, to decide Chennai Super Kings' rivals for the title clash on Friday. RCB scored 138/7, which was outclassed by Kolkata, who scored 139/6 with two balls to spare | P15

USE OF NATURAL EXPERIMENTS GETS ECONOMICS NOBEL PRIZE

Award honours research method that lets economists draw precise conclusions about cause and effect in the real world

RESEARCH UPENDED CONVENTIONAL WISDOM

David Card of the University of California, Berkeley, was awarded one half of the prize for showing that a rise in minimum wage does not lead to less hiring and immigrants do not lower pay for native-born workers. The other half was shared by Joshua Angrist (MIT) & Guido Imbens (Stanford) for creating a framework to study these types of societal issues

INFLUENCING U.S. GOVT DECISION-MAKING

- Economists use natural experiments to study the world, unlike in medicine or other sciences, where controlled trials are conducted
- The late Alan Krueger, who worked with Card on some of the research that won the Nobel, served as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers for former US President Barack Obama P13

Situation grim across country, Shah steps in

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AMID widespread concerns over power cuts across the country because of inadequate coal supply at generation units, Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Monday met both coal and power ministers to take stock of the situation.

Besides power minister R K Singh and coal minister Pralhad Joshi, top officials of the ministries and senior officials from the state-run energy conglomerate NTPC Ltd, attended the hour-long meeting.

While the ministry of coal sought to allay fears of disruption in power supply, the latest daily report of the Central Electric Authority said as many as 115 of the 135 thermal power plants in the country are now on coal stocks of less than a week. As many as 96 of these plants that generate 71% of total thermal power in the country, have coal stocks of four days or less (see table).

40 MT STOCK

Coal India already has 40 million tonnes of stock at its pitheads and the volume is steadily increasing, it said in a statement. CIL accounts for over 80% of domestic coal output

Depending on the distance of the power plant (from the coal mines) and the kind of coal — pithead or non-pithead — it uses, a comfortable stock would last for 15-30 days.

The stock is considered critical if it is likely to last for seven days or less; and super critical if it will be exhausted in four days or less. On Friday last, the number of power plants with critical or super-critical coal stocks was 110.

Reports from across the country confirmed the grim picture. Delhi's thermal units barely have stock for two-three days, claimed power minister Satyendar Jain.

In Rajasthan, Monday was the 11th successive day of blackouts. The state has an overall shortfall of about 2,450 MW, though coal stock has improved a bit with generation commencing in a few plants that were forced to go idle.

Punjab has a shortfall of 1,000 MW per day as many thermal units are shut or working at 50%.

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA is staring at dark days ahead with only two days of coal left for generating power.

In Bengaluru, the peak load has come down from 10,000-12,500 MW to 8,000-9,000 MW, while there has been a shortage of 300 MW over the last two days that is being managed with renewable energy, said a senior official from Bangalore Electricity Supply Company (BESCOM).

According to the Energy Department and Karnataka Power Corporation Ltd (KPCL) records, 12 rakes of coal stock are available at present, which will feed thermal power stations only for two days. To conserve coal, power generation at thermal stations has been limited and power cuts are being resorted to.

"We are running hand-to-mouth. But compared to other states, we are in a better position as our emphasis is more on hydro, solar and wind energy. We are getting eight to nine rakes of coal now, with each rake containing 3,900-4,000 metric tonnes of coal. We need stocks for 15 days, or at least one week, to be in a comfortable situation. After Chief Minister (Basavaraj Bommai) and Energy Minister (Sunil Kumar) held discussions, the Central government has assured the State of 12 rakes. For the additional two rakes, we are talking to Mahanadi Coalfields Ltd (MCL). But that will come only next month. Until then, the situation is tight," a senior KPCL official told The New Indian Express.

KPCL records at 6.30 pm on Monday showed that Raichur Thermal Power Station (RTPS) is able to generate only 444 MW of power as against its capacity of 1,720 MW from three grids, Ballari Thermal Power Station (BTPS) can generate 395 MW power against its capacity of 1,700 MW, and Yeramarus Thermal Power Station (YTPS), 678 MW against a capacity of 1,600 MW. Only one unit each of YTPS and BTPS are operating to conserve coal stocks.

"Farmers are not using irrigation pump sets now because of monsoon. But once the rain stops, the problem will only get aggravated as IP sets consume around 20-30 per cent of power generated," the official said.

As LAC talks fail, India, China blame each other

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

TERSE statements from India and China on Monday on the outcome of the Corps Commander-level meeting the previous day to resolve the standoff in the remaining areas along the Line of Actual Control (LAC), indicated the talks had run into rough weather.

Issuing statements independently, India pointed to Chinese disagreement with its "constructive suggestions". For its part, China said India "persisted in its unreasonable and unrealistic demands".

In the past, both sides had issued joint statements after such interactions. The Indian Army said that during Sunday's meeting, it made "constructive suggestions for resolving the remaining areas but the Chinese side was not agreeable and also could not provide any forward-looking proposals. The meeting did not result in resolution of the remaining areas".

Chinese Senior Colonel Long Shaohua, spokesperson for the Western Theater Command of the People's Liberation Army, said: "(T)he Chinese side made great efforts to promote the easing and cooling of the border situation and fully demonstrated China's sincerity of maintaining overall interests of bilateral military relations. However, the Indian side still persisted in its unreasonable and unrealistic demands, which added difficulties to the negotiations."

The meeting was held at the Moldo-Chushul border point on the Chinese side.

LAKHIMPUR CASE

Minister's son in 3-day police custody

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

ASHISH Mishra, the son of Union minister Ajay Mishra and the main accused in the Lakhimpur Kheri violence case, was on Monday sent to three-day police custody till Oct 15.

The Special Investigation Team had sought a 14-day police remand from a local court for further interrogation, indicating he would not be treated with kid gloves.

Ashish was first remanded in 14-day judicial custody after he was arrested late on Saturday night over the violence on Oct 3, which claimed eight lives. A source privy to the investigation said videos furnished by Ashish in his defence to establish his whereabouts elsewhere on Oct 3 were shot around 4 pm, whereas the violence occurred about 3.15 pm. Meanwhile, the state BJP appeared to be distancing itself from Ashish, with a video showing the party's UP chief Swatantra Dev Singh telling the cadre that "leadership doesn't mean mowing down people by your vehicle." Manual scavenging still on, B'luru not so smart!

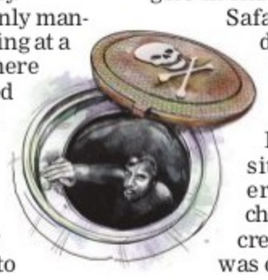
EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AS the state government is claiming Bengaluru to be a 'Smart City' in multiple national and international forums, the work being carried out on the ground is not so 'smart'. Manual scavenging continues to be a part of the Smart City works that have been taken up across the city.

On Monday morning, citizens on Infantry Road found a man, identified as Gopal (35), entering into a duct marked sewer to clear it. The citizens got into a tussle with the contractor to ensure that the work stopped immediately.

Gopal is not the only manual scavenger working at a Smart City site. There are many others aged 30-40 years who have been engaged as cleaners officially. Unofficially, they are made to manually enter sewers and drains to clear them. There is no account of the work done or their safety, said Nanjunda M, working on the welfare of manual scavengers in Karnataka, along with Safai Karmachari Andonal convener Bezwada Wilson.



Yogendra, the contractor at the Infantry Road worksite, said, "The worker had entered the chamber to clear concrete and garbage that was clogging it." P4

The idea of Smart City is to make working easy and more professional. If such acts have to continue then there is no need to have such a name

Sudhakar clarifies, but fails to cool tempers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A day after Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar put his foot in his mouth with a statement on modern Indian women wanting to stay single, unwilling to give birth even after marriage and considering surrogacy, he issued a clarification on Monday, saying that he had no intention of singling out women. But the statement failed to cool tempers.

"His statement is not based on any facts and is made to show women in poor light. It is a reflection of how women's reproductive rights are barely respected. Women are constantly policed about their bodies and the choices they make," said Nisha Gulur, president, Swaraj India Bengaluru Urban District Unit.

Sudhakar stated in his clarification that he had intended to send across a message as to how the Indian family value system can address mental health issues.

"It is unfortunate that a small part of my statement in the 19-and-a-half minute speech was taken out of context, thereby losing the larger point ... I'm a proud father of a daughter and a medical doctor by training. I fully understand the sensitivities around women and also mental health issues that are concerning us," he added.

K'taka plans policy for job-creating firms

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE State Government will soon bring out an employment policy on the lines of industrial policy to provide incentives to industries that generate more jobs, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai announced here on Monday.

Inaugurating an entrepreneurship workshop, 'Udyami Aagu, Udyoga Needu' (Be an entrepreneur, become an employer), at the Palace Grounds, he said, "The need of the hour is to provide employment. Industries that generate more jobs will get incentives under the new policy. Karnataka will be the first in the country to evolve such a policy."

The workshop was organised by the Department of Industries and Commerce to create awareness among young professionals and graduate students on the advantages of becoming entrepreneurs and contributing to the economy, instead of seeking jobs. As many as 6,000 participants, a majority of them students along with their teachers, took part in the workshop. Bommai said Karnataka is ranked fourth in per capita income with only 30 per cent of its population contributing. "If the remaining 70 per cent of the population, especially women, are given the opportunity, they too will contribute to the economy," he added. P6

STUDENT DENIED CHANCE TO WRITE EXAM TOPS SSLC

Greeshma had missed exam in July over non-payment of fees

PEARL MARIA DSOUZA
@Bengaluru

IT was a moment of absolute joy for Greeshma and her family, when she was declared the topper of the supplementary exam for SSLC with a score of 599 out of 625.

The results were declared on Monday. Greeshma had missed the main SSLC examination held in July, as she was not registered for the examination. She had failed to pay fees and thereby not enrolled in class 12 at Alvas English Medium High School in Moodbidri.

The then minister of Primary and Secondary education Suresh Kumar had assured a chance for Greeshma to write the SSLC supplementary examination.

Greeshma's father Narasimha Murthy, who is an agriculturalist, expressing relief at the former minister's intervention in declaring that the exam will be treated as Greeshma's first attempt said that the student had travelled 400 kilometers with her mother to write the examination. Pressure at the examination increased when there were police personnel waiting at the centre for a written statement from her.

"It did make me a little tensed," said Greeshma told TNIE. She went home crying because she had not performed as expected and the police visit at the centre unnerved her.

"I gave my statements after the examination," she said. Signing on the statement that it Greeshma, known to be an exemplary student secured 95% in class 7 and 96% in class 9 examinations, and was planning to pursue a career in science .

Suresh lauds girl

Former minister of Primary and Secondary Education Suresh Kumar said that he was in touch with the commissioner of public instruction, SSLC board to ensure that Greeshma got a chance to write the SSLC supplementary examination.

Rural, govt school students fare well

Bengaluru: The SSLC supplementary examination held on September 27 and 29, saw a total of 53,155 students register for the exam. Just 55.4 per cent of the students passed the exam. The results of the exam were made available on the department's website kseeb.karnataka.gov.in and karresults.nic.in. Students also received their results on their registered mobile numbers via text message at 3pm. With the department passing students who wrote their main examination in July, due to the impact of the pandemic, few students had taken the supplementary examination this year. The overall pass percentage, too, was better than the previous two years. Private fresh candidates pushed the overall pass percentage down, with just 38.31 per cent of the students clearing the exam.

Midday meals begin on Oct 21

PEARL MARIA DSOUZA
@Bengaluru

THE Primary and Secondary Education department has decided to start midday meals in schools from October 21. The decision was confirmed by Education Minister BC Nagesh on Monday. Nagesh confirmed to TNIE that districts have been ordered to begin preparations.

He stated that if approval is given to start the scheme for students of Classes I to V, they too will be beneficiaries of the scheme. In rural areas, several schools have 10-30 students and if students are divided into three rooms, the scheme can be implemented easily, Nagesh added. In the meantime, Classes I to V are the only ones yet to start physical classes, and are likely to return to campuses on October 21. Nagesh said the chief minister will call for a meeting after Dasara to discuss the matter. The department is also awaiting SOPs from the health department.

Fee regulation committee

THE education department has already begun discussions on the fee regulatory committee that has been the demand of parents of students, said Nagesh.

No reduction in syllabus

NAGESH said that no content in textbooks will be trimmed or added this year as the curriculum has already been set. Meanwhile, he said there is a demand for addition of the contribution of Mysuru Maharaja who had a powerful military in Karnataka.

WALL COLLAPSE DAMAGES VEHICLES

A compound wall adjacent to a military camp at Kadiranapalya in Indiranagar collapsed, damaging five vehicles, including four bikes and an auto rickshaw, in the wee hours of Monday. No casualty was reported. Around 4am, morning walkers noticed damaged vehicles and alerted the Fire and Emergency Services. An 8-feet wall had collapsed due to heavy rain, crashing on to vehicles nearby. The vehicles were later recovered from under the debris | EXPRESS

JB KAVAL RESERVE FOREST

Plan to turn woods into park irks citizens, forest officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

OFFICIALS from the Karnataka Forest Department and citizens are now up against the State Government and Horticulture Minister N Muniratna, for announcing to convert Jarakabande Kaval reserve forest into 'Lal Bagh'.

Taking the announcement ahead, officials from the horticulture department have already started the survey of the reserve forest patch. But officials from the forest department state that they have not received any proposal or request for the same. According to horticulture department officials, "Since already a portion of the reserve forest has been made into a tree park, rest can also be utilised to create a park. Since people are unable to visit Lal Bagh and Cubbon Park, the existing lung spaces can be utilised."

But officials from the forest department and citizens have vehemently opposed the idea. "Already, the JB Kaval lake, on survey number 101, has been lost for the construction of peripheral ring road (PRR) and to two builders in the name of 'kharab land'."

The forest officials alleged that revenue department officials termed the dried-up lake land as "kharab land" and handed it over to private owners. The lake was once managed by the forest department.

"The lake, which is next to the reserve forest, has already been lost. The forest patch is rich in biodiversity and flora and fauna. It should be protected and wildlife like fox, hare and peafowl have been sighted here," the official said, adding, "Diverting reserve forest land needs Central Government's permission. So far, no official communication has been made. The proposal should be stalled immediately so that there is no political row over this."

He also pointed out that converting JB Kaval reserve forest into a horticulture park, is a violation of the Forest Conservation Act 1980, Karnataka Forest Act 1963 and Biodiversity Act. JB Kaval was declared a reserve forest in 1896.

Meanwhile, locals believe that it is very unfortunate that the government has not learned from the recent opposition and negative image it earned in the case of the Turahalli forest patch. "It must understand that all existing forest patches which are prime lung spaces cannot be converted into tree parks for recreation of a few," said Meenakshi K, a localite.

'Ducts are risky, but we need money'

"SINCE we did not want the pipes to get damaged, Gopal had gone in and two others were helping him. The work was stopped after citizens objected to it," the contractor added. But when TNIE checked, water was flowing and the man was seen clearing the muck. Other labourers at the site said this is not the first time people are entering into ducts. "Contractors tell us to enter manholes and clear the waste as machines cannot be pushed in. These ducts are dark and dangerous, but we have to do it for the money," said one of the labourers.

Vinay Sreenivasa, an activist and lawyer, said a complaint was filed with Bengaluru Smart City Ltd. "The idea of Smart City is to make working easy and more professional. If such acts have to continue then there is no need to have such a name," he commented. Smart City Ltd Managing Director Rajendra Cholan said that he was informed that it was a stormwater drain. A team of officials was sent to inspect the site and file a report. A notice will be issued to the contractor, he added. As per a survey done in 2020, Karnataka has 5,080 manual scavengers, of whom 1,424 are in Bengaluru alone. While most traditional manual scavengers have been given job cards by the Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Department, many others are being made to work as manual scavengers.

12th October: Mercury is meeting mystical Neptune. This is just the sort of alignment which raises deep desires from the depths of our souls. I have heard Neptune called the planet of ultimate truth, in that whenever it's active, we are faced with the realities we'd usually rather ignore. Still, we can always look the other way!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
This simply has to be a decisive time for your long-term aims and ambitions. Mars will be making some brilliant aspects over the rest of the year, urging you to take the initiative. Yet you are strangely cautious and unwilling to proceed. You're probably right to hang on for now.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Pluto has been working its magic through your relationships with the result that you no longer have time for people who do not value your friend-ship or appreciate your very real need to follow your own path. You're on course for creative fulfilment, by the way, altho-ugh you're not prepared for the strange twists and turns of fate over the next six months.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You are supposed to be so fortunate at the moment, all on account of Jupiter's presence in powerful regions of your chart. However, this planet's retrograde motion has been causing significant delays, and it's unlikely that major plans will come to fruition until next year.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You can no longer rely on the emotional comfort to be gained from the Moon's recent passage through a sympathetic region of your chart. Instead, you should turn your attention to gritty issues, such as arranging your accounts and balancing the books.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
As the Sun forms yet another series of emotional relationships, it might be a question of turning the other cheek unless, that is, you are happy to risk an explosion at home. Family members may be quite justified in nursing grievances, so it's up to you to extend the hand of peace.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You have wasted a lot of time waiting for other people to fulfil promised obligations. Now you must make it your aim to set the agenda, insisting that partners and colleagues be as well-organised and efficient as you. There is a wonderful excuse for getting out of a chore - but will you take it ?

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Venus is now in a wonderfully protective position, although you must be aware that nobody will step in to save you from financial muddles that are of your own making. This is why it is important to be bold and assertive. You see, you can only expect other people to respect you if you respect yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Slowly but inexorably you are moving towards a showdown. This may be with partners at home or colleagues at work, or perhaps with a friend who has been testing your patience. At times like these you should always look before you leap. Otherwise you'll cause strains in a close relationship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
There's a great deal of optimism in the air. Don't let this lead you to misunderstand the situation, though, as it does seem likely that someone has been going behind your back. Be sure to respond with your usual dignity, and leave a final choice until later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The ground may have been swept from under your feet lately, partly due to the fact that your expectations were unrealistic in the first place. It's a good time to secure help and advice from old friends. In love, you're beginning to grow more secretive - and adventurous.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You are supposed to be direct and honest as a rule, but there are times when a little smarmy insincerity can help you get your way without offending anyone. In fact, partners may find your new manners rather endearing. Your business plans will be moving fast, but won't be finally completed until the middle of next year.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Venus' supportive relationship with Jupiter, your planetary ruler, has you purring with contentment and, if all goes well, you'll be having a very successful day. In fact, play your cards right and you'll have plenty to smile about. One thing you can count on - partners will be on your side.

Only a small variation in coronavirus spike protein

Next 6 months crucial, need to increase vaccine coverage, say experts

RANJANI MADHAVAN
@ Bengaluru

THE state Covid-19 Genomic Surveillance Committee has found that with two sub-lineages of the Delta variant, there is little variation in the spike protein. The two sub-lineages are AY.4 and AY.12.

In AY.4, the G142D mutation is present in only 26% of the sequences and the same mutation is found in only 1.3% of the AY.12 sequences, shared Dr Vishal Rao, member of the Genomic Surveillence Committee and chief of Head and Neck Surgical Oncology and Robotic Surgery at HCG Cancer Centre. "This does not mean we let our guard down, as in Israel, AY.12 is causing a surge in cases. We need to keep a close watch hereon for vaccine escape mutations and breakthrough infections, as they are related. The next six months will be crucial and we need to increase vaccine coverage and follow Covid appropriate behaviour," said Dr Rao, adding that the Delta variant has properties of vaccine escape, but the vaccine has largely been effective against it.

A significant population of India, including health workers, took the vaccine eight months ago and immunity will phase out. If a new strain appears which is more transmissible, it may have higher infection rate. Hence, we need to remain vigilant, said Dr Taslimarif Saiyed, CEO and director of C-CAMP, as well as a member of the surveillance committee.

"We need to be cautious until the reproductive rate of the strain goes down. We cannot predict which mutation will infect more people. Genomic sequencing will only help us find the trend of the mutation, to manage it but not to predict it," Dr Saiyed explained. As of October 11, there are 1,653 samples of Delta variant detected, 202 of AY.4 and 14 of AY.12.

This does not mean we let our guard down, as in Israel, AY.12 is causing a surge in cases. We need to keep a close watch hereon for vaccine escape mutations and breakthrough infections, as they are related

16 dists show zero CFR, Gadag tops with 33.3%

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AMONG 30 districts, the Case Fatality Rate (CFR) of 19 districts in the state is less than the state average of 2.1% in the past seven days. Sixteen districts have had zero CFR, while two districts had less than 1%.

Bengaluru Urban, which was doing worse at the beginning of second wave in terms of positive cases and deaths, has come down drastically. In fact, the CFR of Bengaluru Urban is 1.97%, less than the state's average of 2.1%. Hassan has 0.41 % and Udupi 0.83%.

The districts with CFR between 2 and 3% are Dakshina Kannada with 2.42%, Mysuru at 2.48%, Bengaluru Rural with 2.56% and Shivamogga with 2.6%, and Chitradurga and Dharwad with 3.45%.

Uttara Kannada has a high CFR of 4.38%, Tumakuru 5.06%, Davanagere 6.67%, Belagavi 12.12%, and Gadag the highest CFR of 33.33%.

Other districts— Bagalkot, Ballari, Bidar, Chikkamagaluru, Chitradurga, Chamarajanagara, Haveri, Koppal, Kodagu, Kalaburagi, Raichur, Mandya, Ramanagara, Vijayapura and Yadgir have a CFR of 0.

A member from the state's expert committee said, "The number of Covid deaths has come down drastically. With vaccinations in place, the severity of infection has come down. There is now the required infrastructure to treat the patient as well, unlike the initial phase of the second wave, when many cases were reported and there were no beds, oxygen and ventilators available. However, many are now taking it easy and lowering their guard, which should not be done. It is important to continue with Covid-appropriate behaviour to maintain low figures."

16 villages of Kalaburagi achieve 100% first dose vaccination

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI
@Kalaburagi

ALMOST 100 per cent of the eligible population of 16 villages and 90 percent in 162 hamlets in Kalaburagi district have received the first dose of their Covid-19 vaccination.

According to the information available, the entire eligible population of Venkatapur village of Chincholi taluk, Tugaon and Jamaga villages of Aland taluk, Kodla, Benakanhalli, Allolli, Kadakamba, Goudanahalli, Holuhgol, MushkaI, Namvar and Malvar villages of Sedam taluk, Bhairamadagi village of Afzalpur taluk and Kalagi of Chittapur taluk have received their first dose of vaccination.

In 162 villages of the district, 90 per cent vaccination has been carried out on the eligible population (51 villages of Kalaburagi Rural, 33 villages of Chittapur taluk, 16 villages of Afzalpur taluk, 7 villages of Jewargi taluk and 29 villages of Chincholi taluk, 24 villages of Sedam taluk and 2 villages of Jewargi taluk), 70-90 per cent vaccination has been carried out in 344 villages and 50-70 per cent vaccination has been done in 357 villages of the district.

Less than 50 per cent vaccination coverage has been reported from 286 villages, including 66 villages in Jewargi, followed by 47 villages in Kalaburagi Rural. Sources said that of the total eligible population of 18,87,597, 12,00,495 people (64 per cent) have got their first dose and 4,97,323 people (41 per cent) have got their second dose.

Around 78 percent of the eligible population of Kalaburagi city (2,95,500 people) have taken their first dose. The lowest -- 59 per cent of eligible population (1,78,161 people) have taken their first dose of the vaccine in Chittapur taluk.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Kalaburagi District Health Officer Dr Sharanabasappa Ganajalkhed said 1.8 lakh people of the district have migrated elsewhere and details of the vaccination status of those people are being collected.

"Once we get all the details, the tally of the total vaccinated people in Kalaburagi district will improve," he opined.

Get survey dept service at the click of your mouse

Was planned during Covid-19 pandemic, to open to public soon

BANSY KALAPPA
@ Bengaluru

YOU can now get a land survey done from anywhere in the world, and just print the survey reports from the comfort of your home. The Survey department, under Revenue Minister R Ashoka, is working to bring in a new scheme where a property owner can apply from anywhere in the world, seeking sketches for registration, 'Podi' or sub-division of land, 'Hudbust' of land and other services.

This facility is likely to be introduced in about a month's time, allowing access at the click of a mouse. Several meetings have been held to fine-tune the nitty-gritty.

Commissioner, Survey department, Munish Moudgil told TNIE that the move will make it easy for users to access services, considering the department receives about 7-10 lakh applications every year. He said once the payment gateway and other technical details are worked out, it will be launched for public use.

"This project is in the final stages of planning," Moudgil added.

Additional Director CN Sridhar said, "A person seeking the Survey department's services will have to provide bona fide credentials, the request and payments are accepted only after due verification, which will be Aadhaar-based to ensure there is no misuse."

He said it was planned during the pandemic to ensure that one could remotely access the department's services. "A war room was started during the pandemic, and most of the staffers were from the Survey department. Now that Covid cases have drastically come down, about 60-70 per cent of the staffers have returned to the parent Survey department."

Sridhar said, "There are inbuilt safety features too, just like the Bhoomi app. If someone tries to fraudulently access the system to get your land details and initiate a transaction, there is a facility to intimate the owner about such activity immediately."

> If someone is seeking the survey department's services and credentials are bona fide, the request and payments are accepted only after due verification, which will be Aadhaar-based to ensure there is no misuse

AICC LEADERSHIP

Sonia unwell, Rahul should lead: Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

> It is not that Soniaji is incapable of discharging her duties... but it is because she is not keeping good health
> Siddaramaiah, CLP leader and ex-CM

CONGRESS Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah on Monday said that Wayanad MP Rahul Gandhi should take up the responsibility of the Congress president and lead the Grand Old Party as early as possible as acting president Sonia Gandhi was not keeping well.

Speaking to the media here on Monday, Siddaramaiah said, "I have suggested to Rahul Gandhiji that he should become the president of the AICC. I have been saying this for a long time." "It is not that Soniaji is incapable of discharging her duties... but it is because she is not keeping good health. That is why I suggested Rahul to take over as chief as early as possible," the former CM said. Sources said when AICC appointments are made, they inform the candidate about it, but they do not generally take his or her consent as has been demonstrated by many examples.

On murmurs in the media that he was offered a national role in the party, Siddaramaiah clarified that he did not discuss national politics during his recent meeting with Sonia. "The proposal to accommodate me in Delhi AICC is imaginary," he added.

Hitting out at the state BJP over the infighting among ministers over the most-sought after Bengaluru city in-charge portfolio, he said, "The main reason for it is their urge to make quick money through corruption. What else can we expect from the BJP?"

On shortage of coal in Karnataka, Siddaramaiah said the Centre had clarified that there was no shortage of coal in the country. "If the state is saying their is shortage, then first we have to understand if it is an artificially scarcity. Karnataka had never faced power crisis till now. We always had excess production compared to the demand. As our thermal plants are closed, the requirement of coal is not high," the former CM said. He further said that the move to privatise power stations would result in injustice to farmers as free power given to them would be stopped.

He also said that the State Government should demand its rightful share in GST compensation and tax devolution. "We should not begging. It is our right," he said.

Siddaramaiah, who had led the party in recent protests against soaring fuel prices, said an additional Rs 3,000 crore was collected as tax between April and September compared to the same period last year. "Tamil Nadu CM MK Stalin has cut tax by Rs 3. Our government should reduce it by at least Rs 10," he said. "Let him (PM Modi) reduce excise duty by 50%. This is what I call criminal loot," he said."What is the relation between Covid-19 and fuel price hike? Even during Covid, business tycoon Adani's income increased four times... but poor families are going bankrupt," he added.

Karnataka in-charge secretaries appointed

BENGALURU: The Congress on Monday appointed Kuldeep Rai Sharma and Raminder Singh Awla as AICC secretaries attached to the General Secretary in-Charge of Karnataka. Awla is an MLA from Punjab and Sharma is MP from the Andaman and Nicobar Islands.

Gowda draws parallel between India today and Emergency

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FORMER Prime Minister and Janata Dal Secular supremo H D Deve Gowda, who appears to be keeping a wary distance from both the Congress and Bharatiya Janata Party, observed that there is a threat to democracy as the Independence the country had won, is slowly vanishing.

Gowda was speaking at Lok Nayak Jayaprakash Narayan's 116th birth anniversary at the JDS party office 'JP Bhavan' here on Monday.

"Mahatma Gandhi got us Independence the first time, and Lok Nayak Japaprakash Narayan the second time, but it has become scarce now," he stated, drawing a parallel between the current situation in the country and the Emergency imposed by late Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in 1975.

"I will compare the political situation then with that of now. They (BJP, in particular Prime Minister Narendra Modi) had invited then United States President Donald Trump for an event in Gujarat. I do not belong to Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) and will not take on the organisation for criticism's sake, but will tell the truth. It is a fact that some RSS men had surrendered, by tendering letters of apology to the establishment which imposed Emergency," he revealed.

The JDS supremo attacked the Congress for its power-centric politics, claiming that he has stuck to the ideology of JP, and even named the party's office after him. He reminisced about JP's visit to Hassan back in 1957, to campaign for Y Veerappa.

Cong protests Lakhimpur Kheri violence, questions PM's silence

Congress leaders stage a silent protest against the recent Lakhimpur Kheri incident, in Bengaluru on Monday | ASHISHKRISHNA HP

CONDEMNING the recent violence in Lakhimpur Kheri in Uttar Pradesh, State Congress leaders held a 'silent protest' in Bengaluru on Monday, and demanded the dismissal of Union Minister of State for Home Affairs Ajay Kumar Mishra from the Union Cabinet.

Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee president DK Shivakumar and former CM and Leader of Opposition in the Assembly Siddaramaiah, however, were not present at the demonstration that was led by senior leaders, including State Congress Working President Ramalinga Reddy, MLC BK Hariprasad, Indian Youth Congress president BV Srinivas, and State Youth Congress president Raksha Ramaiah in front of the party's city unit office.

Prior to their protest, Reddy questioned the PM's silence over the farmers' stir and the issue of price rise. Srinivas also mentioned that Congress' struggle will continue as they will raise these issues on all platforms. They also plan to hold a 'Jail Bharo Andolan' in the days to come, he informed, adding that neither the Congress nor its leaders -- Rahul and Priyanka Gandhi -- will ever be deterred by threats.

On Monday, senior Congress leaders staged protests across the country against the Lakhimpur Kheri incident. In Bengaluru, however, Siddaramaiah and Shivakumar, who had led the party's protests over the Uttar Pradesh police action against Priyanka Gandhi while she was en route to meet the victims' families, were absent. While Shivakumar was busy with a private event, sources close to Siddaramaiah termed it as a protest by the local leaders of the party.

Bommai govt tightens austerity belt, drops one tower

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THE cash crunch is pinching. Former chief minister B S Yediyurappa's pet twin-tower project is likely to lose a tower. The proposed 50-storey tower was to come up on 8.5 acres near Anand Rao flyover, at an estimated cost of Rs 1,250 crore. It was to house all government departments in one place.

Now, due to financial constraints, the Basavaraj Bommai government is likely to reduce it to a single-tower project, which will cost an estimated Rs 625 crore. The government might take up the second tower after some time. The project is coming up around 2km from Vidhana Soudha, Vikasa Soudha and MS Building, where offices of Health, Public Works and other departments are now located.

When Yediyurappa was CM in December 2020, the cabinet approved the ambitious twin-tower project which was to have 50 floors each. It was proposed to have 25 meeting halls, and accommodate 60 per cent of State government departments, Central government departments and Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) offices. The plan was to connect the building to nearby Kempegowda Metro Station, with a pathway to Vidhana Soudha via Race Course. The National Buildings Construction Corporation was to prepare a detailed project report.

A PWD official said they had proposed a Joint Venture, but are now planning to build it through PWD, with a loan from an external agency. "We are initially proposing a single tower, which will have three basements for parking, a ground floor and 50 floors. The estimated cost is likely to be Rs 625 crore," the official said.

Sources in the PWD said this required a huge amount, but the State government does not have that much money to spend. "This is why PWD is planning to reduce the cost by half. If the government gets funding in the coming years, another tower will be constructed," sources said.

The ground work has begun, with the health department offices being vacated, and PWD offices to be shifted to the Institute of Engineers on Ambedkar Veedhi. The government will have to take a call on whether it can be reduced to a single tower. PWD Minister CC Patil said they are busy with bypolls. "I will talk to CM Bommai, and hopefully, by November-end, it will be taken forward," he said.

BOMMAI said 75 new startups have been planned and 75,000 people belonging to Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes, Other Backward Classes and women will be imparted with skills to turn them into entrepreneurs.

He urged the youth to make use of State and Central schemes and subsidies to start their own ventures. "We are providing necessary guidance and assistance to budding entrepreneurs. We want them to become entrepreneurs and provide jobs to others, instead of turning into job-seekers," said Industries Minister Murugesh Nirani. Similar workshops will be held in Belagavi, Hubballi, Mangaluru and Tumakuru, he added. Bommai praised his predecessor BS Yediyurappa for framing the industrial policy, conducting two Global Investors' Meets (2010 and 2012) and amending Section 109 of the Karnataka Land Reforms Act on acquiring farmland for industrial purposes.

'NEP will help create entrepreneurship culture'

"The National Education Policy (NEP) aspires to create an entrepreneurship culture in the country by enabling students to get project-based vocational training", said Minister for Skill Development, Entrepreneurship and Livelihood Dr CN Ashwath Narayan. It will expose students to various professions at the primary level and will make students industry-ready by the time they finish college.

"The department of skill development has implemented 14 different programmes to train youth in different skills. In addition, it is assisting through MoUs. It is providing necessary skill training and certification through Recognition of Prior Learning, focusing on training students in future skills, such as DOT, cyber security, data entry, etc and providing mentorship to 200 promising entrepreneurs. It is also integrating employment seekers and employers through Skill Connect," he added.

A DAY LATER, SUDHAKAR QUOTES SURVEY TO BACK HIS POINT

SUDHAKAR said that his statement on the younger generation shying away from marriage and reproduction was based on findings of YouGov-Mint-CPR-Millenial Survey, which shows 19 per cent were not interested in marriage or having children.

"Another 8 per cent want children, but not marriage. Among post-millennials, 23 per cent aren't interested in children. There are very little gender-wise differences in these trends. It is applicable to both boys and girls," he added.

But the clarification did not soothe tempers. Swaraj India issued a statement strongly condemning Sudhakar's statement and demanded an immediate public apology from him.

Gulur said, "When politicians give voice to the ugliest forms of misogyny, sexism, it is important to fight back so that the majority voice of the women is not silenced."

Congress termed Sudhakar's statement "regressive". "They make big promises about women empowerment, while this is what the actual mindset is. All masks come off eventually," said state Congress president DK Shivakumar.

Three held in honey-trap case

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Mico Layout police have busted a honey trap ring, and arrested three suspects, including a woman. The accused have been identified as Neha Fathima (25), her male friend Taslim Basha (36), and Mohammed Arbaz (25). Two of their associates are still at large.

According to police, Fathima, had befriended a vegetable vendor posing as a customer. She shared her mobile number and invited him to her house. The two met on October 6. Soon after he entered the house, she allegedly locked the door, and asked him to undress. Meanwhile, four others barged in and recorded him on their mobile phone, threatening to share the video among his family members and upload it on porn sites. The gang extorted an SUV, a mobile phone, and cash from the victim. They later demanded Rs 10 lakh cash.

A day later, the victim approached police, who nabbed the three suspects.

3 minors who had left home traced

Another group of missing children yet to be found

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

Three minor boys, who had gone missing from Bagalagunte police station limits since Saturday morning, were traced to Anand Rao Circle near Majestic, on Monday morning.

The boys aged 15 years, who are studying SSLC in a private school, had left home early on Saturday and had not returned. They left behind a note that they wanted to pursue a career in sports and requested their parents not to look for them.

Police said the boys were traced when they were asking newspapers agents to give them newspaper distribution jobs in the early hours of Monday. The agents grew suspicious and reported the matter to the nearest Upparpet police station.

"The police rushed to the spot and identified the boys as those who were missing from Bagalagunte and alerted the Bagalagunte police. Later, the boys were handed over to their parents after counselling. A preliminary probe established that they had gone to Mysuru on Saturday and had returned to Bengaluru on Sunday, looking for jobs," the police said.

Meanwhile, the Soladevanahalli police have continued the search for four students, three 12-year-olds, including a girl, and a 21-year-old woman, who had also gone missing from their apartment complex in AGB Layout.

Fix highways, Patil tells officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

PWD Minister CC Patil on Monday directed officials to take up the repair of National Highways passing through Karnataka. Many of these roads are in a bad shape and pockmarked with potholes because of heavy rain. He also told officials to remove all unscientific speed-breakers on these highways that are causing accidents.

At a review meeting, Patil said officials must visit the spot and oversee the repair of roads. He insisted that the quality of roads should be maintained. On unscientific speed-breakers, he said many elected representatives have complained about them. Officials must visit these roads and remove these unnecessary speed-breakers, he added.

Nod for widening Sirsi-Kumta Road

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court dismissed a PIL filed by the United Conservation Movement Charitable and Welfare Trust challenging the widening of NH-766E from Sirsi to Kumta in Uttara Kannada district, under the Bharatmala Pariyojana Phase-1.

Contending that the road passes near the northern boundary of a lion-tailed macaque sanctuary for 0.95 km, the petitioner prayed that NHAI be restrained from carrying out widening work. They also sought that NHAI be prohibited from axing trees.

"The project length is less than 100 km and the additional right of way is less than 40 meters. As widening is in the larger public interest, no case for interference in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case is made out in the matter," the court noted.

Cops nab accused in double-murder case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Begur police have cracked the double murder case of a mother and daughter and arrested the accused.

Yamuna (37) and her daughter Rathanya (4) were found murdered at their house in Chowdeshwari Layout on the evening of October 6.

Sources said the accused was arrested on Monday based on technical evidence gathered against him. "The accused hails from Ballari and knew Yamuna for several months. He had come to visit her on the morning of October 6, after her husband had left for work. There was an altercation between him and Yamuna over some issue and he attacked her with a knife, stabbing her several times. As her daughter started crying, he slit her throat," the police said.

It is alleged that Yamuna was blackmailing him after recording his semi-naked video, which led to the murder. However, no official sources confirmed the exact motive and declined to divulge more information, as the accused is yet to be produced before a magistrate.

Dear Sir

Sub: Notice of Sale under the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act 2002 and Security Interest (Enforcement) Rules 2002.

On your failure to repay the dues mentioned vide notice issued under section 13(2), the Authorised Officer had attempted to sell the immovable secured asset described in the schedule on 23.10.2019 & 15.07.2021 through E-Auction by following the process laid down under the captioned Act and Rules made thereunder. The e-auctions conducted as detailed above in respect of the scheduled property was not successful for want of bidders/bids above reserve price. Thereafter, a person has shown interest in purchasing the schedule property for a price above the Reserve Price of Rs.8,50,000/- (Rupees Eight Lakh Fifty Thousand Only) on terms and conditions agreeable to the Bank and the proposed purchaser. As the schedule property could not be sold through e-auction held earlier, the Bank has decided to sell the property to the proposed purchaser by executing necessary documents on 27.10.2021 by way of private treaty.

If you fail to pay the dues outstanding in your loan account within 15 days from the date of this notice, the scheduled property shall be sold to the proposed purchaser as per terms and conditions agreed between the Bank and the proposed purchaser without any further notice to you. If the sale proceeds of the scheduled property is insufficient to realise the outstanding dues under the loan account, the legal action initiated/ to be initiated against you and others shall continue/ follow until full recovery of outstanding dues.

Husband guilty in Uthra case

Sooraj murdered his 25-yr-old wife by getting a snake to bite her; it was his second attempt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kollam

THE Kollam Additional Sessions Court-VI on Monday found Sooraj S Kumar guilty of murdering his 25-year-old wife Uthra by inflicting a snakebite on her using a cobra at his house at Anchal last year.

Judge M Manoj will pronounce the quantum of punishment on Wednesday.

When the court asked his response after reading out the charges, Sooraj said he had nothing to say. The prosecution argued the case belonged to the "rarest of the rare" category and the accused be punished with death sentence. "This is a strange and cruel case. The verdict should carry a strong message to he society," argued G Mohanraj, the prosecutor.

Sooraj, the only accused in the case, has been convicted under four sections of IPC – 302 (murder), 307 (attempt to murder), 328 (causing hurt by means of poison etc, with intent to commit an offence) and 201 (Causing disappearance of evidence of the offence).

Uthra died of snakebite at her husband's house at Anchal on May 7, 2020. It was alleged that her husband Sooraj bought snakes -- first a viper and then a cobra -- to kill Uthra. Sooraj's brutal act came to light after Uthra's parents met the then Kollam Rural S P Harisankar and conveyed their suspicion over her death. The SP ordered a probe and the investigators found the suspicion prima facie true, leading to the arrest of Sooraj.

As per the chargesheet, Sooraj had tried to kill Uthra twice by forcing poisonous snakes to bite her. Also, there was an intervention to destroy the evidence on both occasions. The murder was committed with the intention of extorting money.

On both occasions, Sooraj bought snakes from his acquaintance Suresh of Kalluvathukkal, a snake catcher who later turned an approver in the case.

The prosecution produced 87 witnesses, 286 pieces of documentary evidence and 40 other evidence during the trial.

On Monday, a huge crowd gathered on the court premises to hear the verdict. Uthra's father Vijayasenan and brother Vishu were also present at the court. Sooraj was brought to court at 12.10pm under a tight security.

Vijayasenan said he is relieved about the court proceedings so far.

NIA court sentences three in Mysuru blast

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @bengaluru

THE National Investigation Agency (NIA) Special Court, Bengaluru on Monday awarded prison sentences to three persons - Nainar Abbas Ali alias Library Abbas, Samsun Karim Raja alias Karim and Sulaiman - who were convicted last week in the 'Al Qaeda - Base Movement' Mysuru court blast case of August 2016. The three are from Tamil Nadu. According to the NIA, Abbas Ali has been awarded to 10 years imprisonment of which, seven years is rigorous imprisonment (RI) and three years of simple imprisonment (SI) with fine of Rs 43,000. Karim Raja has been awarded with five years of SI with a fine of Rs 25,000. Sulaiman has been served with 10 years' imprisonment including seven years RI and three years SI with fine of Rs 38,000, stated the Central counter terrorist task force.The trio has been convicted and awarded sentences for the offences punishable under concerned sections of the Indian Penal Code (IPC), Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA), Explosive Substances Act and of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act. The substantial sentences shall run concurrently, the NIA has stated.According to the agency, the bomb blast in Mysuru court was one among five blasts committed by members of the Base Movement, an organisation that pledges its allegiance to Al Qaeda. The NIA had filed a charge sheet against the trio on May 24, 2017, and the trial in the case was concluded on September 29, 2021.

ACCLAIMED MALAYALAM ACTOR NEDUMUDI VENU NO MORE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

IF expressing navrasas in their true essence and in own unique style is the criteria, then Nedumudi Venu is one of the most versatile actors that Indian cinema has ever witnessed.

No two of his characters were alike. Be it Chellappanasari (Thakara), Xavier of Vida Parayum Munpe, the shrewd and cunning Pavithran (Kallan Pavithran), Ravunni of Minnaminunginte Nurunguvettam or the cold-blooded killer Warrier (Ee Thanutha Veluppankalathu) under the garb of a saint, he was a complete actor in every respect.

His career spanning five decades stands testimony to his rich acting skills. He donned roles in over 500 movies and presented a large number of unforgettable characters that saw him honoured with three national and six state awards in his illustrious career.

As Nedumudi Venu bids adieu -- he died on Monday at a private hospital in Thiruvananthapuram following abdominal ailments -- he also leaves behind a legacy that will be etched in gold in the annals of Malayalam cinema.

Born as Venugopal at Nedumudi in Alappuzha to P K Kesavan Nair and P Kunjikkuttiyamma in 1948, he completed his schooling at NSS Higher Secondary School and St Mary's Higher Secondary School, Champakkulam. He completed his graduation from SD College, Alappuzha, and later joined Kala Kaumudi magazine as a journalist. He shifted to Thiruvananthapuram where he joined the group of gifted artists including Aravindan, Padmarajan and Bharath Gopi.

He started his acting career as a theatre artist through the dramas written by Kavalam. He made his movie debut by portraying a small role in Oru Sundariyude Kadha (1972). However, it was through Aravindan's Thambu (1978) that he made a proper entry into filmdom. Nedumudi was also a part of Tamil director Shankar's mega-hit movie, Indian (1996), in which he handled the role of CBI officer Krishnasamy.

Before getting hospitalised on Sunday, Venu had completed his role in Mammootty-starrer Puzhu.

'Solar, wind energy being used during day'

"NOW, the demand during the day is being met with solar and wind energy sources, and in the night, we are managing it with hydropower," the official added.

Energy Department officials said that knowing the situation, there are only two solutions -- buy power from open market grids or purchase coal from the open international market -- both of which are expensive.

"Shortage of coal is not new. The Centre and states faced a similar situation three years ago. But in the last two years, the problem was not felt because of the pandemic, lockdown and lesser number of industries functioning. But now with everything opening up, the problem has resurfaced. This is a clear lack of planning and foresight by the Central and state government officials," an Energy Department official said.

Police nab 20 in cash-per-click fraud

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE South Division police have arrested 20 fraudsters, including six Chinese citizens, who offered part-time jobs to the public and lured them into earning money by watching and liking videos online. Bank deposits of over Rs 16 crore has been frozen by the police.

The Konanakunte police arrested six Chinese citizens - five from Bengaluru and one from Himachal Pradesh - who have allegedly cheated thousands of people. The accused had developed an app named 'Keep Share' with the help of Chinese software developers, whose link was circulated through social media advertisements. Through the app, they lured the public into investing crores of rupees as deposit, promising to pay back Rs 20 for each video of celebrities watched and liked. Trusting them, thousands of people paid them huge sums of money.

"The case was cracked following a complaint by a Bengaluru resident, who had lost Rs 4.83 lakh. Investigation revealed that the accused had converted crores of rupees into cryptocurrency. We have frozen over Rs 11 crore that were found in 110 bank accounts," the police said.

Meanwhile, the Banashankari police have arrested 14 people who had developed 'Super Like - Online Earning App' and cheated people. About Rs 5.40 crore in their bank accounts is frozen.

Police said, in both cases, the accused had taken advantage of the lockdown to market their apps.

Drunk man murders son during quarrel, arrested

ENS @ Bengaluru

A 29-year-old man was stabbed to death, allegedly by his father, at their house in KHB Colony in Kamakshipalya police station limits on Monday afternoon. The police have arrested the accused, Gururaj (58).

The deceased has been identified as Santosh, who worked as a tout at the Yeshwanthpur RTO. He was living with his parents, who run a driving school in the city.

Gururaj and Santosh used to quarrel over the former's alcoholism. Around 2 pm, Gururaj's wife was in the driving school. The father and son, who were at home, began hitting each other. In a fit of rage, an inebriated Gururaj stabbed Santhosh with a knife.

Gandhi now just a snippet in Tamil Nadu school textbooks

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Madurai

INDIA recently commemorated the 152nd birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi, yet in Tamil Nadu it appears very little about the Father of the Nation's life is being imparted to children.

TNIE accessed the State board's text books of Tamil, English, and Social Science of the present day syllabus (revised for classes 1, 6, and 9 in the 2018-19 academic year) and found that lessons on Gandhi had reduced when compared with the old syllabus (revised in 2010). It is to be noted that the revised syllabus for classes 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8, and 10 was implemented only in the 2019-20 academic year.

In the new syllabus, while there is no mention of Gandhi from class 1 to 5, the Tamil textbook for class 6 carries one lesson on 'Tamilnatil Gandhi', and the Social Science syllabus for class 10 has a couple more explaining his biography, and the non-violence movement. On the other hand, the previous syllabus which was being followed between 2010 and 2016 had several chapters talking about various aspects of Gandhi's life, spread across classes 2 to 10. TNIE tried contacting the Director of State Council of Education Research and Training (SCERT), but she was unavailable for a comment. Responding to the issue, Jacqulin Vasantha, Deputy Director at SCERT, said the a high-level committee appointed by the State government, along with a few teachers, had jointly framed the revised syllabus as per the government policy.

Meanwhile, Gandhians have urged Chief Minister MK Stalin to intervene and introduce more chapters on Gandhi for primary class students.

KR Nandha Rao, director of the Gandhi Museum, appealed to the State government to include Gandhi's thoughts, principles of peace and non-violence, and freedom movement in the syllabus. His biography 'Satya Ke Prayog' (My Experiments with Truth) is an open book, and it must reach the youngsters, he said. "Gandhi is unique, and has never declared himself a leader; many world leaders still follow his principle of non-violence in achieving their goals. We should not forget him," he added.

SENSATIONALISM AMID HUGE VOLUMES OF HARD DRUGS

With decades of organised derangement in Manipur or Punjab behind us, cross-border drug cartels have shown us their capacity to produce a frightening kind of anomie and malaise on a mass, social scale. The haul of 2,988.21 kg of heroin from Mundra port in Gujarat, barely a fortnight ago, alerts us to the humongous volumes of hard drugs flowing in. We are talking supranational forces here, with powerful nodes everywhere—with the unlovely Taliban inserting itself at one of the matrix. But what has been catching public attention is souped-up drama at the lowly end of the feeding chain: celebrities, starlets and actors being netted by the Narcotics Control Bureau.

Whether it was the hysteria over Sushant Singh Rajput's death, or the 'cruise drugs' case running on a screen near you right now, the story fed to you is about consumption—that too, often about the soft drug cannabis, which India hardly needs to 'import'. To be sure, celebrity drug busts do point to the easy availability of a whole range of 'party drugs', borne along WhatsApp chats, Bitcoin transactions and strands of the dark web. In its October 2 luxury cruise ship raid, NCB claims to have seized ecstasy, cocaine, methadone and cannabis, in unspecified volumes.

Big or small has become secondary, though. Media found its sensational bit: the arrest of superstar Shah Rukh Khan's 23-year-old son Aryan. As could have been foretold (and perhaps was), the case has taken on a distinct political edge. As it is, NCB has not quite covered itself in glory: What came through was its reliance on 'dubious' elements. Now, the celeb son and his friends find themselves being denied bail for no conceivable legal or investigative reasons. The ground rule is quite clear: bail must be the norm, jail the exception. It's time the Supreme Court laid down the bail guideline in no uncertain terms. Exemplary arrests do not work and are not exactly justice. Besides, finding gratification in headline-hunting via shady, selfie-clicking informers will leave the real problem exactly where it is.

THE SINGAPORE 2050 DREAM OF TAMIL NADU

The pandemic and a battered economy have left state exchequers in tatters. State governments are stuck between a substantial dip in their tax revenues on one side and the Central government policies that throttled the former's freedom to expand their revenue sources on the other. Most of them are banging against the borrowing limits set by the Financial Responsibility Act of 2003. Once they cross 3.5% of Gross State Domestic Product (GSDP), the limit recommended by the 15th Finance Commission and accepted by the Centre, they require a nod for additional borrowing. The fact is that no state government wants to be in such a situation.

Tamil Nadu, one of the top revenue-generating states with enormous untapped wealth, is facing a revenue deficit of about ₹50,000 crore. With its GSDP estimated to be around ₹21.36 lakh crore, it can borrow up to ₹75,000 crore, which is 3.5% of GSDP. Capital expenditure has had a spectacular fall over the last few years. Even revenue spending dropped by nearly a fifth, of which 20% was financed by debt. The situation is so precarious that the state is borrowing to pay interest and salaries. Definitely, it is not a sustainable model.

Finance Minister Palanivel Thiaga Rajan told this newspaper in a recent exclusive chat that there is a serious revenue problem that needs to be fixed. He has called for a rethink and underlined the need to reassess the way we manage assets and investments. He has suggested ways to monetise revenue-generating assets. Banks and funding institutions are more than happy to lend because the cash flows are linked to future revenues of the special purpose vehicles. There is no need to bring in the entire investment from the government kitty. This will also help the state expand its investment horizon.

The dream of a $1 trillion economy by 2030 is not an unrealistic target for the state, according to him. The state will need to grow at about 12-13% annually in notional terms. He strongly believes that the state can do a 'Singapore' in the next three decades, by pushing up per-capita income from the current levels more than 10 times to about $50,000 by 2050. This is a huge target, and one can only hope it won't end up like India's $5-trillion target by 2024.

I think the Air India mascot needs to be made the most of. There is no need to be shy. We have no Maharajahs today and that's the very reason not to give up on this one

BLUE BLOOD AND THE MAHARAJAH

HARISH BIJOOR

Brand Guru & Founder, Harish Bijoor Consults Inc

AMIT BANDRE

The big news of the week gone by is the return of Air India to the Tata stables. The Tata hangars really! What J R D Tata founded in 1932 as Tata Airlines is back within the corporate ownership of Tata Sons and its newly formed subsidiary, Talace Pvt. Ltd. The Maharajah returns to the place and palace of his birth, with a lot of noise and fervour for sure.

Over these 89 years, a lot has happened over the airline and there have been ups and downs. Not so coincidentally, the models of private and public ownership have coincided seamlessly with its peaks and troughs. An airline that had established for itself global repute as one of the best to fly with, finally floundered in recent years—with many in the industry and government equally wondering at times whether there would be anything left to sell at all.

Thankfully, the sale has actually happened. Happened in time, even as Air India remains the largest international carrier out of India with an 18.6% market share, touching as many as 60 international destinations. There is a huge sigh of relief all around. The biggest is surely from the Government of India, which was holding onto an asset that was bleeding ₹20 crore a day. The second biggest sigh was possibly that from its 13,500 employees, many of whom may not have a job to hold on to after the cooling period of one year is done with and Tata restructures its buy. The benign point to consider here is the fact that the airline has been bought by a corporate entity that has possibly the best reputation for both its business and people practices. And the third big sigh must certainly be at Bombay House. The prodigal son has returned.

Sighs apart, it's now going to be back to business at the house of Tatas. The laborious buying process aside, the Tatas inherit the portly Maharajah who has undergone all kinds of surgeries over the decades, a fleet of 141 aircraft, 13,500 employees, a whole lot of landing rights, a modest debt of ₹15,300 crore on its books for a start (the larger debt component of ₹61,562 crore will be borne by the taxpayer) and headaches of every kind, small and big, that come by with a buy of any kind. And remember this buy is in the space of aviation, which is notorious domestically and globally for its burnouts.

The task is cut out for the Tatas. As the Maharajah returns, there are many decisions to take. The first is really that of the core intent, purpose, vision and mission of the Tata aviation foray itself. The group owns chunks of two other airlines already in operation. Both making losses as anyone else in this sector is, as of now. Tata Sons holds 51% in the Tata-Singapore Airlines (SIA) joint venture and 84% in Air Asia currently. While Vistara appears to be the complete competitive inheritor of the legacy of Jet Airways of yore with its full-service avatar and a keen focus on customer experience of the highest quality, Air Asia represents the category of no-frills and budget-airline imageries.

How will the Tatas restructure then? And is it possible to restructure the brands sensibly at all, considering the complex set of aviation rules that govern operations out of and within India? The Tata aviation enterprise today has the choice to be what it wants to be. The ideal route ahead seems to be one that showcases an ambition to be an airline for everyone, with two clear sets of offerings. One in the affordable sector at the bottom of the pyramid with an amalgam effort of Air Asia, AI Express and Indian Airlines, and another at the middle and top of the pyramid with a full-service offering of Air India and Vistara. If wishes were horses, from a pure brand perspective, I would even go on to dream of a clearly demarcated full-service Air India for overseas markets and a Vistara service for the domestic.

Bobby Kooka then said, "His blood isn't blue. He may look like royalty, but he isn't royal!" I disagree. The Maharajah looks like royalty. And now, just now, he has a lot of blue in his blood. The Tata blue!

How will the Tatas take care and look after the interests of the employees they inherit? How will they deal with the need to refurbish, both physically and in brand image terms the desperate need of brand Air India? How will the inheritance of the fleet be managed? How will orders on hand be managed? How will debt be managed? And most importantly, how will the future be managed?

All these questions and many more lie within the many boardrooms at Tata Sons. Exciting questions that will elicit exciting responses from the best minds in the business of business. As each gets answered and actualised into action, many will surely form part of case studies taught and learnt at the best business schools globally. Let's look forward to that.

The best thing that the Tata buy has brought back is the brand name itself. Air India is an airline that has "India" as its surname. There can and will be only one Air India, the airline of India. Every image that India represents will belong to this airline, just as every experience on this airline will define the image of India to the uninitiated and the new. The airline of a nation is its calling card in many ways. Air India has the opportunity to be just that, with pride and honour, under a new and professional private boss.

The Maharajah is back. I think the mascot needs to be made the most of. The Maharajah is an asset to celebrate and use. We have no Maharajahs today, and that's the very reason not to give up on this one. Nothing to be shy of. Time to use him to good advantage and rejig the image of brand Air India, differentiated to the core. This Bobby Kooka and Umesh Rao creation (circa 1946) had Kooka exult then, "His blood isn't blue. He may look like royalty, but he isn't royal!"

I disagree. The Maharajah looks like royalty. And now, just now, he has a lot of blue in his blood! The Tata blue!

FABLES & A SEARCH FOR THE DUCK IN SOUTH INDIAN ART

SRINIVAS SISTLA

Many fables the world over narrate stories of different kinds, and many of them conclude with a moral on the greediness of humans. The Mahabharata narrates a story in which certain wild birds spit gold for a man, who out of greed strangles them for more. The Panchatantra tells a story about a Brahmin who offers milk every day to a serpent in an anthill in his fields and receives a gold coin each time. He later entrusts the job to his son, who gets greedy, and tries to kill the serpent to unearth all coins from the anthill. But his son dies in the process. The father laments on the irreplaceable loss, but continues to give milk to the serpent, which then drops a gem as a final gift and departs forever. The Brahmin casts aside the gem, considering it of no value when compared with the wealth that he would have received on a daily basis. "No confidence is to be placed in a reconciled foe" is the inherent moral. The story surely had its roots in an age-old Indian belief that serpents guard hidden treasures and possess a gem on their hood.

The Buddhist Suvanna Hamsa Jataka narrates a story about a golden hamsa (swan), which shows pity for a poor woman and gives her one golden feather on each visit. She and her daughters become rich. But the woman becomes greedy and plucks out all of the swan's feathers, which end up as normal white ones. The woman keeps the swan in a barrel and feeds it. When the feathers grow, the swan flies away, and never returns. "Contended be, nor itch for further store" is the essential moral in this story.

'The Goose with the Golden Eggs', attributed to Aesop, the Greek fabulist, became popular worldwide. A man possesses a goose that lays a golden egg each day. But dissatisfied with such a menial growth, he kills the goose to grab all the eggs, but finds nothing inside. The story gave way to an idiom, "Much wants more and loses all". Thomas James had translated the fables in 1851, and John Tenniel, a British artist had illustrated the tale. Though the story makes no mention of a woman, the illustrator had shown the owner's wife too. The story has a number of Eastern analogues in which the goose is replaced by hens or other birds. A Russian version involves a duck, husband and wife, and in the end, their son becomes the Tsar of an empire. A part of the story had somehow seeped into Telugu language and led to the coining of "Bangaaru baatu guddu" (the golden egg of a duck), an idiom that is often uttered when one stumbles upon something valuable, quite unexpectedly. The idiom, which is also very unique in the sense that the finder of the duck is content with one golden egg without craving for more, also figures in a popular song of a Telugu movie, Vetagadu (The Hunter, 1979).

Many Telugu scholars suggested that baatu in Telugu had been coined after pato (bato?), a Portuguese word for a duck. In many Indian languages too a similar sounding word for a duck is used; baatu-koli (Kannada), vaatu (Tamil), badak (Konkani), batak (Marathi/Gujarati), battakh (Hindi). In Sanskrit, the bird is known as kaadamba, vartaha and even hamsaha. In Bengali, hans means a duck or a swan. In Malayalam, the bird has a unique name, taaraavpaksi, in which I only know that paksi means a bird. Telugu scholars had proposed that the baatu-lu were brought to India by the Portuguese (known in Telugu as budata-keechu) when Vasco da Gama (d. 24 December 1524 at Kochi) reached Calicut, Kerala, in a ship on 20 May 1498. Interestingly, Sri Krishna Deva Raya of the Vijayanagara Empire had written in his long poem in Telugu, Amuktamalyada (c. 1517), a verse that mentions ducks for the first time in Telugu literature. While translating the poem from 2005 to 2009, and even after publishing it in 2010, I couldn't resist wondering about the probable presence of the duck in Vijayanagara art, and searched for the same, wherever I had gone on field work or some other exploration relating to visual art. To my own delight, I have photographed two carvings, which in my opinion show the duck; one in Sri Padmanabhaswamy Temple in Thiruvananthapuram, Kerala, in 2009, and another on the outer compound wall of Sri Chintala Venkataramana Temple, Tadipatri, Andhra Pradesh, more recently in 2019. Pemmasani Timmarayudu II, a subordinate of the emperor-poet who wrote the Amuktamalyada, had constructed the Tadipatri temple. The verse, which mentions the ducks, in an afresh rendering by me goes as follows:

"At dawn, guards reached the city outskirts where they saw something white next to a canal amid paddy fields. They thought that some Brahmins had left their white garments after bathing in the canal. When they tried to collect the garments, they were white ducks, sleeping with their beaks tucked into their wings. As the ducks suddenly woke up and slipped into the canal, the guards were confused. Women guarding the paddy fields, so amused were they that they started laughing."

Even the verse hints that the male guards of the city were not familiar with ducks and their confusion made the women guarding the nearby fields burst into laughter. Women as a strong protection force in the Vijayanagara period is another pertinent topic of discussion, which perhaps could be dealt with in a separate article, sooner or later.

Only BJP MP to take stand

Lok Sabha MP Varun Gandhi is the only BJP MP to have taken a principled stand on the Lakhimpur Kheri violence. The fact that he is not in the good books of the BJP leadership is another matter. How long can the party hide the truth about the violence?

As long as he is in power...

This is with reference to Languid pace of the due process of law in UP (Oct 11). The Chief Justice of India is seriously concerned about why Ashish Mishra was served a summons instead of being arrested outright, but the answer is simple: his father is the Minister of State of Home Affairs. He has gone on record saying his son was nowhere near the incident site despite clear evidence that the vehicle belonging to their family was captured on camera. As long as he is retained in the saddle, there cannot be a fair trial in this case.

Art criticism's real function

This is with reference to The state of art and criticism (Oct 11). The author aptly highlights the degeneration of the work of art writers, driven by market forces and bereft of ethical or aesthetic content. The article rightly underscores the need for restoring the real function of art criticism by infusing academic rigour and intellectual honesty.

Change monetary policy

This is with reference to What is 'stagflation' and how does it affect your money? (Oct 11). Kudos to the newspaper for publishing a timely and thought-provoking article. I feel that traditional monetary policy cannot be effective in containing inflation as it doesn't take into account Bitcoin and other crypto assets that are in circulation today. A paradigm shift in monetary policy tools is the need of the hour. The central bank of each nation should have a strong control over these swiftly circulating crypto assets.

Dhoni's great performance

Cricketer M S Dhoni rolled back the years to help the Chennai Super Kings script a spectacular triumph over the Delhi Capitals and storm into the IPL 2021 finals. With his team requiring 13 off the last over, he crunched three boundaries off Tom Curran, leaving DC devastated. Robin Uthappa and Ruturaj Gaikwad also laid a good platform. CSK will now play in its ninth IPL finals.

Panun Kashmir a solution?

After so many attacks on the minorities in the Valley, it definitely seems that Kashmiri Pandits would be targeted if they returned. The only solution for the Centre now seems to be to work towards the proposed Panun Kashmir to save Pandits from another genocide. The Valley appears to be a death chamber for them otherwise.

Union Minister Hardeep Singh Puri welcomes Rana to the BJP | PARVEEN NEGI

Devendra Singh Rana's joining gives traction to saffron party in Jammu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE BJP on Monday inducted former National Conference leader Devendra Singh Rana with an eye to gain strength in Jammu and Kashmir amid the likelihood of the re-start of the legislative process in the Union Territory in the coming months.

Rana joined the BJP in the presence of Union Ministers Dharmendra Pradhan, Hardeep Singh Puri and Jeetendra Singh apart from senior leaders, including general secretaries Arun Singh and Tarun Chugh. Rana said he would ensure that those carrying out the separatist agenda will never succeed in J&K.

Former National Conference leader Surjeet Singh Salathia also joined the BJP along with Rana. Salathia had been a minister in the government in the erstwhile J&K state when the National Conference was in power.

Pradhan said that the BJP will be stronger with Rana in the party fold. "The decision of Rana and Salathia to join the BJP demonstrates the growing popularity of the BJP in J&K. The developmental works have gained pace in the union territory after the abrogation of Article 370," he told reporters.

BJP's J&K unit chief Ravindra Raina told reporters that the people of the Union Territory have distanced from the separatist politics and embraced the development agenda of Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Meanwhile, the National Conference has got yet another jolt as over three dozen party activists, including a provincial secretary, two district presidents and two Jammu Municipal Corporation (JMC) corporators, resigned on Monday.

Jolt to BJP in Uttarakhand as Yashpal Arya is a big leader from backward section

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

IN a setback to the BJP ahead of the Assembly elections, Uttarakhand Cabinet minister Yashpal Arya and his MLA son returned to the Congress on Monday.

A prominent leader from the backward community, Arya along with son Sanjeev met former Congress chief Rahul Gandhi before joining the party. He had left the Congress ahead of the 2017 elections after his son was not given party ticket.

The joining Congress holds importance as former chief minister Harish Rawat had recently said that the party may have a Dalit chief minister on the lines of Punjab. Arya was a speaker and minister during the erstwhile Congress rule in the hill state.

"It is my 'ghar wapsi' as I have returned to my family. If the Congress emerges stronger, then democracy will be strengthened further," said Arya.

While the six-time MLA represents Bajpur (SC) constituency, his son Sanjeev represents Nainital.

The Congress said that Arya's come back is a positive sign that it will win in the state.

"This is one of the happiest moments for the Congress party as Yashpal and Sanjeev Arya have decided to join the Congress, giving a clear-cut indication of coming elections in Uttarakhand. The wind is in favour of the Congress in Uttarakhand," General Secretary (organisation) K C Venugopal told reporters after the father-son duo formally joined the party which is eyeing to trounce the ruling BJP in Uttarakhand.

Five private labs join Covid genome surveillance project

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

IN a boost to the Centre's project that detects new and emerging Covid variants, at least five private laboratories have joined the network of 28 government laboratories involved in the task.

Sujeet Kumar Singh, director with the National Centre for Disease Control which leads the consortium, told this newspaper that the private laboratories that fulfil the specifications listed by the Department of Biotechnology were approved to join the network.

Beginning with 10 national research laboratories that came together in view of the B1617 variant of Covid, the INSACOG project went on to add 18 more regional laboratories over the past few months. While nearly 60,000 samples were subjected to whole genome sequencing till September, nearly 7,000 samples per month, the government plans to further enhance the capacity to 70,000 samples.

"As of now, the turnaround time for samples undergoing WSG every month is nearly 10-15 days," said a senior official. "We hope to bring it down to four-five days and adding private laboratories will be a big help in that direction."

Officials said that the works of these laboratories are crucial for the identification of variants of concern and interest so as to advise the policy makers for effective management of the Covid pandemic.

The project, for instance, had first identified the Delta variant in February in Maharashtra. The variant later took the country by storm, triggering a massive second wave in India. Many experts feel that not enough attention was paid to the issue which led to the huge surge in Covid cases, shortage of hospital care and, eventually, deaths.

Mahajan Imaging, Premas Life Sciences (Delhi), Strands Life Sciences, Genotypic Technology (Bengaluru), NMC Genetics India (Gurugram), and Mapmygenome India (Hyderabad) showed interest in joining the consortium.

"After that certain specific criteria were laid down and the laboratories were asked to submit their expression of interest in a standardised format with details such as the type of sequencing platform that is operational, number of viral genome sequences that is being proposed to carry out per week or per month, number of trained laboratory personnel available," an NCDC official said, adding that five laboratories so far have been approved to join the consortium.

'Lack of vaccine applicators delaying ZyCoV-D launch'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE availability of a special applicator required to administer Covid vaccine by Zydus Cadila is delaying its launch in the country, government officials have said.

ZyCoV-D is the first Covid vaccine in India to be approved for 12-17 year age group apart from adults. The government had intended to launch it on October 2 for giving an impetus to the ongoing national Covid vaccination drive.

"However, first there was delay owing to the price negotiation between the government and the company and then there was the issue of availability of applicators as the vaccine needs to be administered intradermally," said a source in the Union health ministry.

The source added that the applicator which costs about ₹30,000 and can be used for about 20,000 doses should be available in India by this week, paving the way for the vaccine's launch. The applicators are being produced by Pharmajet and are not made in India.

The Ahmedabad-based company had projected the vaccine as a painless vaccine that has to be administered in three doses. The firm, though has not published data from the phase 3 trials of the DNA based vaccine yet, has claimed that it was about 67 % effective in reducing Covid, including that caused by Delta variant.

Unease in Uttarakhand BJP, protest in Cong ranks

VINEET UPADHYAY @Dehradun

COMING ahead of Union home minister Amit Shah's visit, the exits of Yashpal and Sanjeev Arya have caused a stir among the BJP rank and file in Uttarakhand.

Sources in the BJP said that state leaders were summoned by the central leadership to explain the defections. "The meeting will take place either in Uttarakhand or Delhi. This (exits) will also be discussed in the home minister's meeting. Though there was a talk of Arya and his son rejoining the Congress, it has raised a question on the functioning of the party as well as the government," said a party insider.

Yashpal Arya had joined the BJP in January 2017, just before the Assembly elections. Before him, nine rebel MLAs left the Congress for the BJP in 2016.

Now, the exits have sparked rumours of others, including Harak Singh Rawat and Satpal Maharaj, taking the same route. The opposition Congress has already formed a panel to oversee 'ghar wapsi' of those leaders and workers who were either expelled or voluntarily left the party in last five-six years.

In November last year, Cabinet minister Harak Singh Rawat had sparked speculations of rejoining the Congress when he commented that there were no permanent friends and adversaries in politics

Political experts asserted that both parties are betting on every seat in the 70-member Assembly as every seat matters.

Meanwhile, voices of dissent within the Congress have started emerging. Sarita Arya, women's wing of the party, said if Sanjeev Arya gets ticket from Nainital, she would be forced to think of leaving the party.

> Upcoming months will be full of defections. This is a norm during election. The defectors are smartly taking calculated decisions. In Uttarakhand, every seat matters — JS Rawat, political commentator

SEVEN HC JUDGES TRANSFERRED, PATNA HC GETS 3

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

IN another reshuffle in higher judiciary, seven judges were on Monday transferred to different high courts.

This is the second set of transfers of high court judges within a week after, 15 judges of 11 high courts were transferred on October 5 following recommendations by the Supreme Court collegium last month.

The Patna High Court got three new judges as Justice Rajan Gupta of the Punjab and Haryana High Court, Justice P B Bajanthri of the Karnataka High Court and Justice Sanjeev Prakash Sharma from the Rajasthan High Court have been transferred there.

Justice T S Sivagnanam has been transferred from the Madras High Court to the Calcutta HC while Justice Sureshwar Thakur of the Himachal Pradesh HC has been sent to the Punjab and Haryana HC. Justice T Amarnath Goud has been sent from Telangana High Court to Tripura HC while Justice Subhash Chand of the Allahabad High Court has been moved to the Jharkhand HC.

Besides, three advocates and two judicial officers were elevated as judges of the Rajasthan High Court. The judicial officers to be elevated were Vinod Kumar Bharwani and Madan Gopal Vyas while the advocates who were made judges included Farjand Ali, Anoop Kumar Dhand and Sudesh Bansal.

In separate developments, Justice Prakash Srivastava was on Monday administered the oath of office as the new chief justice of the Calcutta High Court while Delhi High Court Chief Justice D N Patel administered the oath of office to Justices Yashwant Varma and Chandra Dhari Singh who were transferred as judges from Allahabad High Court on October 5.

Between August 8 and September 1, the Collegium had processed over 100 names recommended by various high courts and had finally sent 68 names to the government for appointment as judges to 12 high courts. Later, more names were sent to the government.

'Will see if ED can attach property under PMLA'

The SC has agreed to examine the legal issue of whether the Enforcement Directorate can attach ancestral properties of the accused under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) as "proceeds of crime". The question came up for consideration before the top court on an appeal filed by the ED challenging an order of the Karnataka High Court which observed that action under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act cannot proceed in respect of the ancestral property.

'Court will not rescue non-cooperating people'

The court shall not come to the rescue of an accused who is not cooperating with the probe agency and is absconding, the Supreme Court has said refusing to grant anticipatory bail to a man in an alleged rioting case. Hearing the accused's plea against the Allahabad HC order which rejected his petition, the top court said he was continuously absconding and proclamation proceedings under Section 82 of the CrPC has also been initiated against him.

Antiquities to land from US by end of year

PARVEZ SULTAN @New Delhi

TO ensure the safe return of 157 precious antiquities from abroad, the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) has started drawing up a schedule so that the process is completed by the end of this year.

An official said an expert team would supervise packing and shipping of valuables from the Indian consulate in New York. "Transportation of antiquities is a cumbersome and time consuming process. It requires adequate preventative measures in advance. ... The dispatch will come in batches. We are hopeful that by December end, all antiquities will arrive," he added.

The US had handed over 157 artefacts — mostly statues and idols made of metal, stone, and terracotta — to the PM during his visit in September.

As per the PMO, 71 aftefacts are cultural and others mostly figurines related to Hinduism, Buddhism and Jainism. The items largely belong to 11 CE to 14 CE. While the copper anthropomorphic object is from 2000 BC, one of the terracotta articles dates to 2 CE. Nearly 45 antiquities belong to the Before Common Era.

After their return, antiquities will be sorted before dispatching them to states from where they were stolen. "In the absence of any records or FIR, articles will remain the possession of the ASI," the official added.

ADR REPORT

14 regional parties earned ₹448 cr from poll bonds

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

FOURTEEN regional parties received donations through electoral bonds worth ₹447.49 crore in 2019-20, which constitutes 50.97 per cent of the collective income of 42 regional parties for the financial year, that was ₹877.957 crore.

In its latest report on analysis of income and expenditure of regional political parties for FY 2019-20, the Association for Democratic Reforms (ADR) said only 14 of the 42 parties that were analysed declared receiving donations through electoral bonds. These are — TRS, TDP, YSR-C, BJD, DMK, Shiv Sena, AAP, JD(U), SP, JD-S, SAD, AIADMK, RJD and JMM.

The ADR said the 42 parties collected ₹676.326 crore or 77.03 per cent of their total income from voluntary contributions, including electoral bonds. Income raised through other donations and contributions amounted to ₹228.828 cr or 26.06 per cent of the total while ₹113.761 crore or 12.96 per cent was generated through interest income and FDRs.

The Telangana Rashtra Samithi (TRS) declared the highest income of ₹130.46 crore, which forms 14.86 per cent of the total income of all the parties analysed, the ADR report said. The Shiv Sena had an income of ₹111.403 crore or 12.69 per cent of the overall income and YSR Congress had ₹92.739 crore or 10.56 per cent.

The report said out of 39 parties from among the 42, whose data was available for the two fiscals, 23 showed an increase in their income from 2018-19 to 2019-20, while 16 showed a decline. The overall income of the 39 parties decreased 19.57 per cent — from ₹1,087.206 crore in 2018-19 to ₹874.467 crore in 2019-20.

The ADR said 24 regional parties declared that a part of their income for 2019-20 remained unspent while 18 parties spent more than what they earned. The TRS had over 83.76 per cent of its total income remaining unspent, followed by AIADMK and JJP at 67.82 and 64 per cent, respectively.

"TDP, BJD, DMK, SP, JDS, AJSU, JVM-P, INLD, PMK, MGP, GFP, SDF, MNF, AIFB, NPF, JKPDP, IPFT and MPC are the 18 regional parties that declared spending more than their income. BJD has declared spending the highest amount of ₹95.78 crore or 106.01 per cent more than its income," the report said.

Mandaviya restarts BJP reconnect programme

New Delhi: The BJP on Monday re-started weekly Sahyog programme where a minister is available to listen to the concerns of the party workers and the common people. The initiative was suspended due to Covid pandemic. In the first "Sahyog" day, Union health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya heard the concerns and requests of the party workers. The BJP leader discussed health issues in various parts of the country. Union Law Minister Kiren Rijiju is next in the roster. The move is aimed to help BJP workers gain direct access to the ministers to bridge the gap between them.

States looking at options to meet power demands

"MANY of our thermal power units are shut due to coal shortage. But in a day or so the power situation should improve," said Punjab State Power Corporation chairman A Venu Parshad.

Poll-bound Uttar Pradesh, too, has a deficit of over 1,000 MW, because of which some of the rural areas are facing five-six hour outages. However, uninterrupted supply to cities is being maintained.

As for the NDA-ruled Bihar, Chief Minister Nitish Kumar on Monday admitted he was grappling with a power crisis. To bridge the deficit of about 800 MW, the government is purchasing power at higher rates, he said.

Kerala has an estimated shortfall of 300-400 MW amid dwindling coal reserves. The Pinarayi government has decided to buy costly power from the exchange to avoid load shedding.

Very few states have been untouched by the crisis, and Telangana must count itself as lucky because it has Singareni coal fields. Its current stock at thermal units is sufficient for the next 15 days. "Because, we have Singareni, we have sufficient stocks," a top official in TS Genco said.

Odisha, too, is in a comfortable position with adequate stock. It is anyway a power surplus state. As for Tamil Nadu, it has coal stock for seven days. The situation is largely normal in Assam, Chhattisgarh and MP. But since Uttarakhand has stopped buying costly power to meet its deficit, many districts there are experiencing power cuts for a few hours. Capital Dehradun, though, is adequately provided.

The power situation in Andhra Pradesh, too, is manageable but coal shortage has forced some thermal plants to scale down generation. If the situation is not addressed immediately, power cuts could become unavoidable after a week, officials warned. With inputs from ENS bureaux

UP BJP chief Swatantra Dev says politics is not about mowing down people under SUVs

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

UTTAR Pradesh BJP chief Swatantra Dev Singh was caught on camera giving leadership tips to party workers when he stated that being a political leader does not mean that one mows down people by a car. Video clip of the statement went viral on Monday, leaving the party red faced.

This was the first time a BJP leader spoke against the Lakhimpur Kheri incident in which eight persons, including four farmers, were run over by an SUV on October 3. Swatantra Dev summoned Union minister Ajay Mishra Teni to Lucknow on Monday evening.

The state BJP chief was addressing party workers at the inaugural session of the executive of the party's minority front on Sunday. In an indictment of Ashish Mishra, son of Ajay Mishra Teni, Singh said that elections should be won on the basis of high moral conduct.

"Politics is for serving the society, the nation. It should be selfless and not on the lines of caste and religion. Being a political leader does not mean you loot, it does not mean that you mow down anyone by your Fortuner. We are in this party to serve the poor. Politics is not a part-time job," Singh was seen as saying in the video.

Appreciating Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, the UP BJP chief said both came from humble backgrounds and did a lot for people without asking for votes. "The Prime Minister opened bank accounts for the poor. Both of them constructed lakhs of homes in the state. Did anyone ask about votes and religion? The lives of people are transforming through gas, electricity connections and toilets provided to them."

Swantarata Dev rushed to Delhi on Monday afternoon after being called by the party high command to discuss poll strategy. UP in-charge Radha Mohan Singh and organisational secretary Sunil Bansal were also called.

Mishra has so far avoided meeting Adityanath and party Swatantra Dev, after the October 3 incident in his constituency. His son Ashish is the main accused and has been sent to police custody for three days. "The party state president wanted to talk to Ajay Mishra Teni and get back to the high command," said a BJP source.

Akhilesh's Yatra today

SP chief Akhilesh Yadav will commence his Vijay Yatra on Tuesday. On Monday, he went to seek the blessings of his father Mulayam Singh Yadav at his residence in Lucknow. With an eye on sensitising people about the alleged autocratic rule of the BJP government ahead of next year's Assembly polls, Akhilesh will start the Yatra from Ganga bridge in Kanpur. It will continue intermittently till the notification of polls.

Hints of BJP distancing from minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow

THE BJP is distancing itself from Ashish Mishra after the police claimed to have collected evidence of his presence in a convoy of cars during the incident in Lakhimpur Kheri on October 3. Trying to corner BJP in this case, Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra observed a silent protest on Monday demanding resignation of Ashish's father and Union minister of state Ajay Mishra Teni.

The statement of Uttar Pradesh BJP chief Swantantra Dev Singh to the party cadre that "we are not in politics to trample someone under a SUV" is being seen as an indication that the BJP doesn't want to stand by Mishra.

Congress leaders are keen to turn this to their advantage. Party workers observed 'maun vrat' (silent protest) in front of the statue of Mahatma Gandhi on Monday. State Congress president Ajay Kumar Lallu, Legislative Party leader Aradhana Mishra, Leader in the Legislative Council Dipak Singh were among those who were later joined by Priyanka.

Congress has maintained that Mishra should be dropped from the cabinet of ministers to ensure fair investigation. UP minister Siddharth Nath Singh, however, said law will take its own course and not be influenced by pressure.

5 SOLDIERS KILLED IN KASHMIR GUNFIGHT

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

A Junior Commissioned Officer (JCO) and four soldiers were killed in a fierce gunfight with militants in the Surankote area of Poonch in Jammu and Kashmir on Monday. Violence in the Valley has escalated last week with the killing of as many as seven civilians.

On Monday morning, the Army launched a cordon and search operation in a village close to Dera Ki Gali in Surankote based on intelligence inputs, an army official said. During the operation, a gunfight broke out after militants fired automatic weapons at the army's search party. Five soldiers, including the JCO, were critically injured and evacuated to a military hospital, where they died of their injuries.

The deceased soldiers were identified as Naib Subedar Jaswinder Singh from Punjab, Naik Mandeep Singh and Sepoy Gajjan Singh (both also from Punjab), Sepoy Saraj Singh (Uttar Pradesh) and Vaisakh H (Kerala).

Additional troops were rushed to the area to assist the security men in the combing operation. Sources said security forces engaged with the militants in the forest area of Bhangai village in the neighbouring Rajouri district in the evening.

More troops have been rushed to the area to tighten the siege. Sources said a group of two-four militants are trapped in the area and it is suspected that they may have infiltrated from across the border.

On Monday, three other separate encounters took place between militants and security forces in Kashmir, resulting in the deaths of two militants.

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

A pall of gloom descended on the houses of Naib Subedar Jaswinder Singh and Sepoy Gajjan Singh soon after the news of their death reached their families. The two were martyred in an encounter in Jammu & Kashmir on Monday. Both had spoken to their families two days back and Jaswinder had told his near ones that he would be coming home in November. Gajjan had said he would home after just three days. The 39-year-old Jaswinder of Kapurthala was the youngest in the family. His father Harbhajan Singh had retired from Indian Army as a Captain. His brother Rajinder was also in the army. Jaswinder had come home in May after his father died.

"My brother called us two days back. He said he would take leave in November for rituals to be conducted a few months after the death of a person. Never in our wildest dreams did we imagine that we would never him again and perform his last rights," said Rajinder.

Jaswinder is survived by wife Sukhpreet, 13-year-old son Vikramjeet and 11-year-old daughter Harnoor. His mother is Manjit Kaur. The family does farming, while his elder brother works as a private security guard.

Gajjan (27) was from Ropar district. He is survived by his parents, three elder brothers and wife. "He got married in February. Today we get this heartbreaking news," said a relative, adding that the news of his death has not been shared with his family because his mother is unwell. He was the youngest of four brothers. They have two acres of land and his brothers are farmers. The third solider who died was Naik Mandeep Singh of Chalha village in Gurdaspur district. Shiromani Akali Dal president Sukhbir Singh Badal mourned the demise of the soldiers and urged the Punjab government to provide at least ₹50 lakh in compensation to both families. He also sought government jobs for their family members.

Mixed response to bandh in Maharashtra

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

THE Maharashtra bandh called by the alliance partners of Maha Vikas Aghadi in protest against the Lakhimpur Kheri incident received mixed response on Monday.

In the first half of the day, businessmen and shopkeepers kept offices and shops shut. In the second half, some of the shops were opened.

From parts of the state, there were reports of burning of car tyres and threatening shopkeepers. It was alleged that alliance partners Congress, NCP and Shiv Sena leaders forced shopkeepers to shut down shops and other establishments in support of the bandh.

People find themselves in front of closed shops in Mumbai on Monday | PTI

Leader of Opposition and BJP MLA Devendra Fadnavis called the Maha Vikas Aghadi bandh state-sponsored terrorism. He said never did any state government call a bandh anywhere and the Maha Vikas Aghadi violated its own resolution against such bandhs. BJP leaders opposed the bandh, saying that the state government should worry about the farmers in Maharashtra than Uttar Pradesh.

Jayant Patil, state president, NCP, said that by opposing the bandh, BJP was indirectly supporting the BJP minister and his son. "They should have supported the bandh in the larger interest of farmers," he said.

ARYAN ARREST

'WhatsApp chat used to tangle me in drug case'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mumbai

THERE is no immediate relief in sight for Bollywood superstar Shahrukh Khan's son Aryan Khan in the drugs case.

With a Mumbai special court granting two more days to the Narcotic Control Bureau (NCB) to file its reply on the bail of the three accused – including Aryan Khan, Arbaz Merchant and Munmum Dhamecha – the bail pleas will be heard on Wednesday.

Aryan Khan who is accused number one, in his bail application in special court stated that he was falsely implicated in this entire case.

"The embargo for bail under section 37 of the NDPS Act would not apply as no recoveries were made from him and all the allegations pertain only to small quantity," his bail application stated.

Aryan Khan's plea states that the prosecution is relying solely upon certain alleged WhatsApp chats to entangle him in the present proceedings, without the veracity or accuracy of the chats being established.

Himachal leader's Kargil remark puts Cong in a fix

CHANDIGARH: The Congress is in an uneasy situation in Himachal Pradesh. Pratibha Singh, party candidate from Mandi Lok Sabha seat in Chief Minister Jai Ram Thakur's home district, triggered a controversy by saying that the Kargil war was not a major battle. Addressing a gathering during her election campaign, the widow of former Chief Minister Virbhadra Singh said, "BJP gave ticket to an ex-serviceman who took part in Kargil war. It was not major war. Pakistanis had captured our territory which was taken back by our army. The BJP gave the ticket to this person who fought this war in order to get votes, which is not the right thing to do." ENS

Fallout of killings: Six non-migrant Pandit families leave Valley

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

AFTER the killing of three minority community members and a non local by militants in Kashmir last week, at least six non-migrant Kashmiri Pandit families and many families of Pandits, who had taken up jobs in Valley under PM's job package, have left the Valley while the Pandit groups have demanded setting up of three separatist Pandit townships in the Valley and urged the majority (Muslim) community to make announcements from mosques appealing their community to stand with minorities to instill confidence among them.

Sanjay Tickoo, president of non migrant Pandit group — Kashmiri Pandit Sangarsh Samiti (KPSS) told this newspaper that there is fear among the community after killing of three minority community members including a prominent Pandit businessman M L Bindroo and non-local street vendor by militants last week.

About 808 Kashmiri Pandit families comprising about 3400 souls did not migrate after eruption of militancy in 1990 and are living in different parts of the Valley.

Tickoo said many Pandit families who had taken up jobs in the Valley under PM's job package, have also left the Valley after the killings.

Tickoo urged the majority (Muslim) community to make announcements from mosques appealing their community to sand with minorities.

"We don't need security men at our homes. We want our majority community Muslims and sisters in our homes. These steps can instill confidence among the minority community including Pandits and Sikhs and prevent 1990 like exodus of Pandits from the Valley," he said.

The government has taken many steps including increasing security at the transit accommodations for Pandits in the Valley, where the Pandits, who have taken up jobs under PM's package, are staying with their families.

Cyber forensics laboratories in six districts

The Information Technology and e-Governance department of the state government has prepared a proposal for setting up cyber forensics laboratories in at least six of the 24 districts in Jharkhand to combat cybercrimes and track down perpetrators of crimes against women committed with the use of cyberspace. These cyber forensics laboratories will be used for conducting forensics tests on various electronic gadgets such as mobile phones and computers recovered by the police from crime scenes and help the law enforcement agency solve cybercrimes as well as crimes of other nature. One of these six cyber forensics laboratories will come up in Jamtara, a district that has gained the infamous title for becoming the 'cybercrime capital' of India over the years.

Doors of Durga Puja pandals opened

The capital Ranchi has been painted in the colours of Durgotsav. After the 'Belvaran' ritual on Monday evening, the doors of all Durga Puja pandals in the city were opened for the devotees from Monday. At the same time, crowds of devotees will also come out to visit the pandals and Mother Shakti. The height of the statues installed in these has also been kept very low. At the same time, lighting and decoration have also been done in a limited area. According to the government instructions, this time neither a fair will be organized nor food stalls will be set up around the puja pandals.

Economist trio who raised the credibility of empirical research

Award for pioneering natural experiments and creating a framework for improving them

STOCKHOLM

THREE US-based academics who won the Nobel Economics Prize on Monday revolutionised empirical research in the field, the jury said.

Canadian-American David Card, Israeli-American Joshua Angrist and Dutch-American Guido Imbens shared the prize for providing "new insights about the labour market" and showing "what conclusions about cause and effect can be drawn from natural experiments," the Nobel committee said in a statement on Monday.

The Economics Prize wrapped up a male-dominated 2021 Nobel season which saw a total of 12 men win prizes and only one woman.

Card, a Canadian-born professor at the University of California in Berkeley, won half of the 10-million-kronor ($1.1 million, one million euro) prize for work focused on the labour market effects of minimum wages, immigration and education.

In natural experiments, researchers study the result of chance events or policy changes on groups of people, unlike other experiments where scientists have control over their subjects. Natural experiments ushered in a "credibility revolution" in economics, in which empirical data had not previously been taken seriously.

Card's studies from the early 1990s showed for example that raising the minimum wage does not necessarily lead to fewer jobs.

"We now know that the incomes of people who were born in a country can benefit from new immigration, while people who immigrated at an earlier time risk being negatively affected. We have also realised that resources in schools are far more important for students' future labour market success than was previously thought," the Nobel committee said.

However, data from a natural experiment are difficult to interpret.

For their work helping to solve that methodological problem, the other half of the prize went jointly to Angrist, 61, a professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Imbens, a 58-year-old professor at Stanford.

The three laureates "have revolutionised empirical work in economics. They have shown that it's indeed possible to answer important questions, even when it's not possible to conduct randomised experiments," Nobel Committee member Eva Mork told reporters. AFP

Academy head rules out quotas for women

Although only one woman this year won a Nobel Prize compared to 12 men, Goran Hansson, the head of the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, on Monday ruled out gender quotas. Only 59 Nobel prizes have gone to women—6.2 per cent of the total—since they were first awarded in 1901. Investigative journalist Maria Ressa of the Philippines shared the Nobel Peace Prize and was the only woman honoured this year. "We have decided we will not have quotas for gender or ethnicity. We want every laureate (to) be accepted... because they made the most important discovery, and not because of gender or ethnicity. And that is in line with the spirit of Alfred Nobel's last will," Hansson said

RESHAPING EMPIRICAL STUDY

The Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences said the three have "completely reshaped empirical work in the economic sciences." Here's what they did:

CARD'S RESEARCH UPENDS CONVENTIONAL WISDOM

David Card's studies from the early 1990s showed that raising the minimum wage does not necessarily lead to fewer jobs

In a study published in 1994, Card looked at what happened to jobs at Burger King, KFC, Wendy's and Roy Rogers when New Jersey raised its minimum wage from $4.25 to $5.05

Contrary to previous studies, he and his research partner Alan Krueger, who died in 2019, found that an increase in the minimum wage had no effect on the number of employees

He studied Miami's labour market after Cuba's decision to let people emigrate in 1980. His work showed increased immigration can have a positive impact on income for people born in the country.

TAKING NATURAL EXPERIMENT FORWARD

Card's work on minimum wage was an example of a "natural experiment," or a study based on observation of real-world data. However, data from a natural experiment are difficult to interpret as it is difficult to isolate the cause and effect

Guido Imbens and Joshua Angrist developed statistical methods to get around these challenges and determine more precisely what can actually be said about the causes and effects

In research they conducted in the mid-1990s, they demonstrated how "precise conclusions about cause and effect can be drawn." The framework they developed has been widely adopted by researchers since

Extinction Rebellion activists demonstrate in Warsaw in support of Poland's EU membership on Sunday | AP

Thousands march amid fears of Poland leaving EU

WARSAW

TENS of thousands of Poles rallied on Sunday in defence of their country's EU membership, after Poland's top court last week issued a landmark ruling against the primacy of EU law.

The pro-EU demonstrations were called by former EU chief Donald Tusk, now leader of the country's main opposition grouping, Civic Platform, who has warned of the prospect of a "Polexit".

"Tens of thousands of people in Warsaw and in over 100 cities and towns across Poland have come to protest what this government is doing to our homeland," Tusk told a massive crowd in the capital awash with the EU's star-studded blue flags. Tusk asked people to "defend a European Poland" after a wave of criticism against the ruling both at home and from around the European Union.

Membership of the bloc remains very popular according to opinion polls but relations between Warsaw and Brussels have become strained since the populist Law and Justice (PiS) party came to power in 2015.

The main bone of contention is a wide-ranging reform of the judiciary wanted by PiS, which the EU fears will undermine judicial independence and roll back democratic freedoms.

The latest twist in the long-running dispute was the ruling on Thursday from Poland's Constitutional Court, a body which government opponents say is stacked with PiS allies and therefore illegitimate.

"I'm here because I'm afraid we'll leave the EU. It is very important, especially for my granddaughter," Warsaw resident Elzbieta Morawska, 64, told AFP.

"Britain has just left the EU and it's a tragedy, if Poland leaves now, it'll also be a tragedy," Aleksander Winiarski, 20, said. "This government has overstepped all boundaries—this is a mafia state," Beata, a 40-year-old manager in a Warsaw media company. AFP

Iraq captures finance chief of Islamic State

BAGHDAD

IRAQ has captured the alleged finance chief of the Islamic State group, Sami Jasim al-Jaburi, who was sought by the United States, in an operation abroad, Iraqi authorities said on Monday.

Jaburi, also the suspected former deputy to the late IS leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi, was arrested "in Turkey", a senior Iraqi military source told AFP without elaborating.

Prime Minister Mustafa al-Kadhemi had earlier announced on Twitter that Jaburi was arrested by the intelligence services "outside the borders" of Iraq, in a "complex external operation," without naming the location.

It was not immediately clear if Turkish authorities were involved and there was no immediate reaction from Ankara.

The US had offered a reward of up to $5 million for the capture of Jaburi.

The US Rewards for Justice programme said Jaburi had "reportedly served as the equivalent of... finance minister, supervising the group's revenue-generating operations from illicit sales of oil, gas, antiquities and minerals".

In September 2015, the US Treasury Department labelled Jaburi as a Specially Designated Global Terrorist.

IS took over one third of Iraq in a lightning offensive in 2014, expanding their self-declared "caliphate" stretching across the Syrian border.

IS sleeper cells still periodically launch attacks in Iraq. However, the terror group is now "stretched" financially and its operations in Iraq are "very localised". AFP

US WILL PROVIDE ASSISTANCE TO AFGHANISTAN, SAYS TALIBAN

ISLAMABAD

THE US has agreed to provide humanitarian aid to a desperately poor Afghanistan on the brink of an economic disaster, while refusing to give political recognition to the country's new Taliban rulers, the Taliban said Sunday.

The statement came at the end of the first direct talks between the former foes since the chaotic withdrawal of US troops at the end of August. The US statement was less definitive, saying only that the two sides "discussed the US' provision of robust humanitarian assistance, directly to the Afghan people." The Taliban said the talks held in Doha, Qatar, "went well," with Washington freeing up humanitarian aid to Afghanistan after agreeing not to link such assistance to formal recognition of the Taliban.

The United States made it clear that the talks were in no way a preamble to recognition of the Taliban, who swept into power August 15 after the US-allied government collapsed. State Department spokesman Ned Price called the discussions "candid and professional," with the US side reiterating that the Taliban will be judged on their actions, not only their words.

"The US delegation focused on security and terrorism concerns and safe passage for US citizens, other foreign nationals and our Afghan partners, as well as on human rights, including the meaningful participation of women and girls in all aspects of Afghan society," he said.

Taliban political spokesman Suhail Shaheen also told The Associated Press that the movement's interim foreign minister assured the US during the talks that the Taliban are committed to seeing that Afghan soil is not used by extremists to launch attacks against other countries.

On Saturday, however, the Taliban ruled out cooperation with Washington on containing the increasingly active Islamic State group in Afghanistan. AFP

North Korean defector says Kim's spies active in South

SEOUL

NORTH Korean spies have secretly penetrated South Korea's civil society organisations and are active members in them, a high-profile defector who served in the higher reaches of the North's spy agencies told the BBC on Monday.

"I can tell you that North Korean operatives are playing an active role in various civil society organisations as well as important institutions in South Korea," Kim Kuk-song said. Kuk-song, who fled the North in 2014, has since been working for the South's intelligence.

Speaking of Kim, he said, the young leader was on the lookout for opportunities in the late 2000s to prove to his father, Kim Jong-il, that he was indeed a warrior and a worthy successor to him. One such opportunity came in 2009 when an order was passed by his father to assassinate a top official who defected to the South in 1997. Once in the south, Hwang Jag-yop became a fierce critic of the North. The Kim family was upset and wanted revenge.

"For Kim Jong-un, it was an act to satisfy his father," Kuk-song told BBC. However, the plot went wrong and two North Korean officials were arrested.

Kuk-song's time serving the North's intelligence saw him sent several spies down to the South to gather information.

Jhunjhunwala-backed Akasa Air gets clearance

Ultra low-cost airline hopes to start operations by summer of 2022

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

BILLIONAIRE investor Rakesh Jhunjhunwala-backed Akasa Air has received no-objection certification (NoC) from the civil aviation ministry and hopes to start operations by summer of 2022. Akasa Air and three other airline companies had applied for NoC from the ministry to start scheduled air passengers services and air cargo services in August.

Akasa's approval coincidentally comes days after Jhunjhunwala had met Prime Minister Narendra Modi. The investor is expected to own nearly 40% stake in the airline and is considering investing $35 million in the venture.

Akasa will now have to apply for the Directorate General of Civil Aviation for its operations permit. Beside Jhunjhunwala, Akasa is backed by industry veteran Vinay Dube, the former CEO of Jet Airways who will also head operations at Akasa. Previous CEO of IndiGo Aditya Ghosh is also associated with the airline.

"We are extremely happy and grateful to the Ministry of Civil Aviation for their support and for the grant of the NoC. We will continue to work with the regulatory authorities on all additional compliances required to successfully launch Akasa Air," Dube, now CEO of Akasa Air, said in a statement.

He added, "Akasa Air will serve all Indians regardless of their socio economic or cultural backgrounds with warmth, inclusiveness and respect. Because at the end of the day, it is these qualities that connect people and cultures and help Indians realise their dreams."

The airline is in talks with US-based aircraft manufacturer Boeing for buying up to 100 737 Max plane. According to reports, Airbus too has pitched its narrow-body Airbus A320Neo to Akasa's management.

The approval comes at a time when India's aviation industry is showing signs of a string recovery. The industry is also going through a structural change with India's largest conglomerate Tata Group winning bid for ailing national carrier Air India and Jet Airways' new management confident of restarting operations early next year. However, rising oil prices and uncertainties around Covid-19 pandemic continues to pose a big risk to the sector.

Govt to clear ₹16k cr bills of Air India

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government on Monday issued Letter of Intent to Air India and clarified that it would clear about ₹16,000 crore of unpaid fuel bills and other dues that Air India owes to suppliers and vendors before handing over the loss-making airline to the Tata Group.

"LoI issued to the successful bidder in the strategic disinvestment transaction of AI. share-purchase agreement will be signed soon," Tuhin Kanta Pandey, Secretary to the Department of Investment and Public Asset Management — the department running the privatization programme — said in a tweet on Monday.

According to the divestment secretary, the government will transfer about ₹16,000 crore of unpaid fuel bills and other dues that Air India owes to suppliers, to Air India Assets Holding Ltd (AIAHL), which will hold non-core assets of Air India such as land and building. AIAHL will also hold rest 75% of the airline's debt that the Tata Group is not taking over.

Pandey also added that the government would continue to support the airline's operations by giving ₹20 crore required daily to maintain it as a going concern. Also before the handover of the airline to Tatas, the government would again work on the balance sheet of Air India for the remaining 4-month period (Sept-Dec) and whatever liabilities arise would be transferred to AIAHL.

As part of deal with Tata Group

Besides the unpaid bills of `16,000 crore, the govt would continue to support the airline's operations by giving `20 crore required daily to maintain it as a going concern

As on August 31, Air India had a total debt of ₹61,562 crore. Of this, Tata Sons holding company Talace Pvt Ltd will take over ₹15,300 crore and the remaining ₹46,262 crore will be transferred to AIAHL.

Besides, non-core assets including land and building, valued at ₹14,718 crore are being transferred to AIAHL.

After adjusting for all the dues to lenders and operational creditors and also the assets of AIAHL, the net liabilities with AIAHL as of August 31 is ₹44,679 crore.

Invesco says promoters of Zee harming interest of 96% shareholders

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

NONE of the sides in the Zee Entertainment versus Invesco tussle seem to be in a mood to relent. After Zee Entertainment promoters – Subash Chandra – last week went public with his attack on minority shareholders Invesco Developing Markets Fund and OFI Global China Fund LLC, Invesco in an all-out attack said that the founding family, which holds under 4% of the company's shares, is benefitting at the expense of 96% shareholders.

In an open letter to shareholders of Zee, Invesco Developing Markets Fund reiterated its demand for an Extraordinary General Meeting (EGM) as it stressed on the need for a demarcation between the promoter family and the institution.

The letter also said that there is a need for the Board to be strengthened with independent directors who take their jobs seriously, who robustly debate vital decisions and who serve as guardians of all shareholder interests.

"The Invesco has been a significant shareholder in Zee Entertainment Enterprises for over a decade and that it is disappointed that the leadership of Zee has resorted to a reckless public relations campaign in response to the overwhelming demand from shareholders for leadership changes at Zee," said Justin Leverenz, Chief Investment Officer, Developing Markets Equities.

Invesco has also expressed its concern over Zee and Sony Pictures merger deal, which it says is wholly opaque. It says the current terms of the Sony-Zee announcement gift additional 2% equity to the founding family via a non-compete that seems entirely unjustified, while also providing a pathway for the founding family to raise its stake from 4% to 20%.

"Any transaction will be evaluated in a constructive spirit if and when full details are made available," it says.

Govt receives third list of Indians having accounts in Swiss bank

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government on Monday said it has received the third list of details of Swiss bank account holders, including some information of their real estate assets also.

"We have received a third list of people who are having accounts in Swiss bank as part of the automatic information exchange pact between the two countries. The list will be scrutinised as per the procedure," a government official said.

The official claimed that in fight against black money allegedly stashed abroad, this list has some more details than accounts including real estate and other holdings, like complete information on flats, apartments and condominiums owned by Indians in Switzerland, including earnings made from such properties.

From this year, Switzerland's Federal Council, the country's top governing body, has decided to implement a key recommendation of the Global Forum on Transparency and Exchange of Information for Tax Purposes, under which Swiss authorities will also share details about investments made by foreigners in the Swiss real estate sector.

The tax department will look into tax liabilities associated with those assets.

India had received the first set of details from Switzerland under AEOI (Automatic Exchange of Information) in September 2019. In September 2020, India received the second set of Swiss account details of its nationals and entities, along with 85 other recipient countries with which Switzerland's Federal Tax Administration (FTA) exchanged information.

"This year, the AEOI involved a total of 96 countries. Antigua and Barbuda, Azerbaijan, Dominica, Ghana, Lebanon, Macau, Pakistan, Qatar, Samoa and Vauatu were added to the existing list of 86 countries. With 70 countries, the exchange of information was reciprocal. In the case of 26 countries, Switzerland received information but did not provide any, either because those countries do not yet meet the international requirements on confidentiality and data security (14) or because they chose not to receive data (12)," Switzerland's Federal Council said.

Reliance to get an edge in solar energy biz with two acquisitions, say analysts

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S richest billionaire Mukesh Ambani's Reliance Industries Ltd (RIL) gave a major push to the its ambitious solar business by acquiring two major firms on Sunday.

RIL's acquisition of Norway-based REC Solar Holdings is likely to give the company a major cost advantage when it comes to solar equipment manufacturing.

Analysts at Jefferies India said in a report that REC is the only company globally that has commercialised tech, which consumes 75% less power than Chinese competitors. "REC has implemented the fluidised bed reactor (FBR) tech for producing polysilicon on a commercial scale. The FBR process consumes 75-80% less energy than the traditional Siemens process that Chinese players use," said the report.

REC has patented technology and opens up the export market for Reliance's solar business. "REC's long operating history in Europe and the US opens up the possibility of RIL exporting to these geographies," Jefferies said. The brokerage has maintained its 'buy' rating on the stock with a target price of ₹3,050. Shares of RIL rose 1.8% on Monday but closed slightly lower at ₹2,651.

Reliance New Energy Solar, a wholly owned subsidiary of RIL, acquired REC Group for $771 million. The company also announced plans to buy a 40% stake in Shapoorji Pallonji-backed Sterling and Wilson Solar Ltd (SWSL) for ₹2,845 crore. "In India, Reliance plans to use this industry leading technology (of REC Solar Holding) in their fully integrated, metallic silicon to PV panel manufacturing gigafactory at Dhirubhai Ambani Green Energy Giga Complex, Jamnagar, initially starting with 4GW per annum capacity and eventually growing to 10GW per annum," said RIL Chairman & MD Mukesh Ambani.

Revised guidelines on on-tap SLTRO scheme

Mumbai: The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) on Monday issued revised guidelines on the special long-term repo operations (SLTRO) scheme for small finance banks (SFBs). In the monetary policy announced last week, the RBI had extended the on-tap SLTRO for SFBs till December 31, 2021. The RBI in a statement on Monday said all SFBs eligible under the liquidity adjustment facility (LAF) can participate in the scheme.

IEA invites India to be full-time member: Puri

New Delhi: International Energy Agency (IEA) has invited India to become its full-time member - a proposal if accepted will require New Delhi to raise strategic oil reserves to 90 days requirement. Oil Minister Hardeep Singh Puri on Monday said he held online discussions with IEA Executive Director Fatih Birol. India in March 2017 became an associate member of the Paris-based body which advises industrialised nations on energy policies.

MG DRIVES IN MID-SIZE SUV ASTOR AT ₹9.78 LAKH

MG Motor India on Monday said it has launched a new model Astor, priced between ₹9.78 lakh and ₹16.78 lakh (ex-showroom Delhi), thus foraying into the fast-growing mid-sized SUV segment in the country.

The model, which would compete with the likes of Hyundai Creta, Kia Seltos and Skoda Kushaq, comes with a personal AI assistant and first-in-segment Autonomous (Level 2) technology.

The model is based on the company's global platform, ZS and comes with two engine options the 220 TURBO petrol engine with a six-speed AT (automatic) delivering a 140ps of power and VTi Tech petrol engine with a manual transmission and an eight-speed CVT, delivering 110ps of power.

The prices are introductory and would hold for deliveries this year. "The bookings for Astor would start at dealerships and online on the company website from October 21. Customers, however, can pre-reserve the vehicle from today," MG Motor India President and MD Rajeev Chaba said at the online launch event. PTI

'MISSTATEMENT'

Zostel asks Sebi to suspend Oyo's proposal for IPO launch

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BUDGET hotel and hostel aggregator Zostel Hospitality Pvt Ltd has filed a complaint with markets regulator the Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) seeking suspension of Oyo's initial public offering (IPO) proposal.

In the 98-page complaint, it cited "misstatements" and "inadequate disclosures" in the draft red herring prospectus (DRHP) filed by them.

The company, which owns Zostel Hostels and ZO Rooms, has said the IPO is non-maintainable as Oyo's parent firm Oravel's capital structure is not final. Zostel, in the letter to SEBI, said, "Accordingly, Oravel's filing of the DRHP in the circumstances, is illegal, in view of the stipulation contained under Regulation 5(2) of the Securities and Exchange Board of India Issue of Capital and Disclosure Requirements (ICDR) Regulations, 2018."

The company said Zostel's shareholders have a right to get issued in their favour, 7% of the equity securities of Oravel, alleging Oravel has failed to grant the same and hence is prohibited from making any public offer of its shares.

This is the latest episode in the ongoing dispute which dates back to 2015, when Zo Rooms was shut down after the merger talks between the two, which could have resulted in Zo Rooms getting a 7% stake in Oyo, was not implemented after an investor in Oyo objected to the buyout. The two companies have been fighting the case since then.

In March this year, however, a Supreme Court-appointed arbitrator had said that Oyo was in breach of its agreement for the acquisition of Zo Rooms.

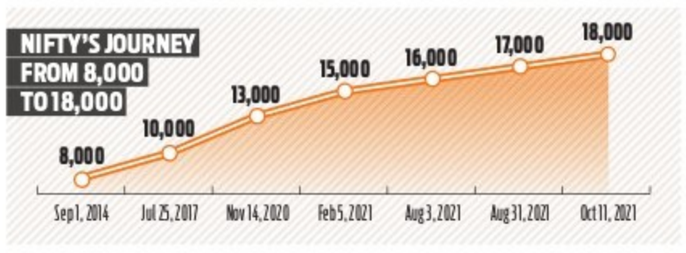
Nifty hits 18,000-mark; sliding TCS drags IT stock

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

CONTINUING its bull run, benchmark index Nifty50 for the first time scaled the 18,000-mark during intraday deals on Monday.

The 50-share index has added 2,000 points since August 3 when it had first hit the 16,000-mark after a long haul. It had taken Nifty nearly 6 months to surge from 15,000 points to 16,000.

However, as the day progressed, the markets gave up most of the gains, primarily due to the widespread selling seen across IT stocks, to end slightly higher. Nifty ended the day 0.28% higher to its all-time closing high of 17,945 while the 30-share index Sensex, after scaling a new intraday high of 60,476, closed 76.72 points higher at 60,135.78.



"Nifty touching an all-time high level of 18000 is a journey. It is not a destination. Market is driven by 'triveni sangam' of positive sentiment, fund flow from domestic and global investors and improving corporate profitability. Festival season has begun with a bang and supported positive momentum," said Nilesh Shah, Group President & MD, Kotak Mahindra Asset Management Company.

Tata Motors, Coal India, Maruti Suzuki, Grasim Industries and Power Grid Corp were among the major gainers on the Nifty. TCS, Tech Mahindra, Infosys, HCL Technologies and Wipro were among the big gainers. Tata Motors gained over 9% to close at ₹417.80 while Maruti Suzuki surged 3.36% to close at ₹7,680.

Narine's mystery sinks Bangalore

West Indian's all-round show helps Kolkata enter Qualifier 2 against Delhi Capitals

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

ALL eyes were on Royal Challengers Bangalore captain Virat Kohli as he walked for the toss on Monday. Their match against the Kolkata Knight Riders in Sharjah was much more than just an eliminator. They have failed too often in the IPL, but in the lead up to the play-offs, they have showed signs of a top team with some impressive cricket. A win against Eoin Morgan's side in Sharjah would mean inching towards their maiden title while a loss would also result in their exit and mark the end of Kohli's tenure as Bangalore skipper.

There was some additional pressure on Kohli. The 32-year-old might have hit three-half centuries and scored over 300 runs in the group phase without the authority one usually associates with him. On Monday, it was all about Sunil Narine, who stole the show as he scalped four big wickets, including the big three of Kohli, Glenn Maxwell and AB de Villiers to restrict Bangalore to 138/7. Narine then went on to score a 15-ball 26 including three sixes off his first three balls to help his side notch up a four-wicket victory.

The bowler was on the money throughout the contest. Not only did he take wickets, the West Indian also contained the batters like no other as his 11 dot balls suggested. With such tight bowling, he ensured batters made mistakes to bag the wickets in the process. Even Varun Chakravarthy, though wicketless, played his part as none of the batsmen could score a single four against him. It spoke about how the spin duo strangled the opposition.

However, at one point of time, especially in the powerplay, it looked like Bangalore would post a commanding total. The intent was visible with Kohli and Devdutt Padikkal trying to maximise during the first six overs. They struck seven boundaries, but what they did really well was running between the wickets. Bangalore took 18 singles in the powerplay, helping them to a decent 53/1 in six overs with Kohli scoring at a strike rate of 150. The signs were ominous.

But, the scenes changed quite drastically in the next four overs. Bangalore scored 17 runs as Kohli and KS Bharat could not really turn it on during the phase. After the latter's wicket, Maxwell hit a four after a period of more than six overs without one. That kind of pressure was brought about by the spinners. And when Narine dismissed Kohli and AB de Villiers in back-to-back overs, the pressure fell on Maxwell.

Brief scores: RCB 138/7 in 20 ovs (Narine 4/21) lost to KKR 139/6 in 19.4 ovs (Gill 29, Narine 26; Chahal 2/16, Harshal 2/19).

Suranjoy out to relish second innings as coach

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

TWO and a bit years made him a legend. A gold at the Asian Championships (after 15 years in 2009), a gold at the Commonwealth Championships and Games, an Asian Games bronze and a host of international medals. What takes a boxer an eternity, M Suranjoy Singh earned it in just two years. He also earned the moniker Chhota Tyson, for his fights and the way his looks resembled the boxing great, Mike Tyson. His career looked destined for more. But fate did play the wrong dice. His mother's passing away led to severe psychological issues before a career-threatening knee injury in 2011 curtailed one of the shortest but most promising careers of a boxer. He missed out on 2012 Olympics due to injury and by 2015 retired and joined a coaching course.

Six years later, Suranjoy has got another crack at doing what he loves most -- boxing. However, this time it's not as a player but a coach. Off the ring, the atavistic ferocity gives way to humility and gentleness. Ever soft-spoken, Suranjoy rued those missed-opportunities silently but never let them take control of his life. He turned his attention towards his family and coaching. "I love the ring and we are inseparable," said Suranjoy, who was named as one of the 14 coaches of the senior team that would attend the national camp in Patiala from Tuesday.

The journey was never easy.

"I never knew what hit me after my mother's death," he told this daily from Bhiwani, where he is coaching. "It was during my coaching diploma course at NIS Patiala that I realised I was going through severe psychological issues. Back then I did not know. I was down and could not sleep at night. More than the injury, that came later, this almost killed me softly from within. I lost interest. I could not concentrate and all. I have learnt a lot during my course and also during my stint as coach with various teams in Navy and Services. I want to give back to the sport this way and hope to live my dream of winning big. During my NIS course, I learnt a lot. I could have avoided the injury. I could have avoided the psychological trauma." He completed his NIS diploma in 2016.

"Challenges would be there, but I am sure I will be able to cope with it," he said.

'Athletics and swimming compulsory'

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

A COUPLE of the key recommendations of the Commonwealth Games Federation (CGF) directly affects Indian athletes. The body, during the Annual General Meeting, has recommended that only two disciplines — aquatics and athletics — be categorised as 'Proposed Compulsory Sports'. Among the Commonwealth, India are historically bad in these two disciplines.

"The latest recommendation is for athletics and swimming to be the only two compulsory sports, given their historical place on the programme since 1930 and on the basis of universality, participation, broadcasting, spectator interest, Para inclusion and gender balance," the roadmap, found on the body's website, says.

However, as part of the recommended pathway for the upcoming two CWGs from 2026, they have included T20 (both men and women) as a 'proposed core sport'.

New faces in coaching staff for boxing camp

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

BARELY two weeks before the AIBA World Championships, the elite men boxers and coaches, who had been an anxious bunch in the last few weeks or so, are finally set to assemble for a national camp in NIS Patiala after the Boxing Federation of India (BFI) got the green light to conduct the same from the Sports Authority of India (SAI). The boxers, 52 in total, are expected to arrive in Patiala from Tuesday onwards and could start with light training exercises.

As reported by this newspaper last Tuesday, the camp will see the introduction of fresh faces in the coaching staff with Narendra Rana taking over as the head coach. CA Kuttappa, who formerly occupied the post of head coach, will be part of the camp as 'coach (Coordination)'. Foreign coach Santiago Nieva, who was handed a two-month contract extension until December, will also be part of the group. Former champion boxers M Suranjoy Singh and L Devendro Singh are among coaching staff. Both of them will look to instil fresh ideas to the pugilists. Even though the camp came later than desired, some of the boxers had been training at their respective bases.

WORLD CHAMPIONS STILL TEAM TO BEAT

The Golden Generation suffered at the hands of Switzerland at the Euros but there has been no hangover of that defeat since. Coach Didier Deschamps absorbed some brickbats but his team has recovered from that disappointment to win two matches after trailing against high-quality opposition. With the likes of Kylian Mbappe and Jules Kounde still developing, they will likely go into Qatar as the favourties.

SPAIN ON THE UP

There were glimpses this summer and that progression was also visible at the Nations League as well. Wojtek, the smiling warrior, has statues dedicated to his exploits both in Poland and Scotland

THE BEAR THAT WENT TO WAR

Did you know a bear fought the Nazis alongside the Polish soldiers? He not only became the first ursine to get enlisted in any army, but also is an enduring symbol of unity between Scotland and Poland, so much so that both countries celebrate him as their mascot. Here's the story of the bear that went to war

BRIEF HISTORY OF WW-II

SEPTEMBER 1, 1939 — Germany invades Poland, setting off the Second World War

SEPT 17 — USSR, too, invades Poland

OCTOBER 6 — Campaign ends, Germany and USSR divide Poland among themselves

1,50,000 — Polish troops escape to neutral Romania, Latvia

DID YOU KNOW?

War historian believe the Polish campaign of the Nazis was one of the earliest examples of the famous Blitzkrieg, which is a method of offensive warfare designed to strike a swift blow at an enemy using mobile, wmaneuverable forces. Such attacks ideally lead to a quick victory, limiting the loss of soldiers

FROM IRAN, WITH LOVE

Our story unfolds in the Alborz Mountains of northern Iran, where the 22nd Artillery Supply Company of Polish troops that survived the Nazi Blitzkrieg was posted in 1942

SUMMER OF 1942
A shepherd boy rescues a bear cub, whose mother hunters had killed

WINTER OF 1942
The boy sells the cub to Polish soldiers for tins of food

1943
The bored soldiers train the cub for their amusement

1944
The company is transferred to Alexandria, Egypt; the cub accompanies them

1944
The soldiers are transferred to Naples, Italy

WOJTEK DIES IN SCOTLAND
1963

THE WAR (1944-45)

WOJTEK HAD BECOME
6 feet TALL
220 kg IN WEIGHT

Wojtek had been trained to carry crates full of heavy mortar rounds

During the bloody battle of Monte Cassino, enemies and allies saw Wojtek calmly hauling mortar shells as bullets whizzed past

The story of Wojtek's support and bravery in the decisive battle gave him a legendary status among the soldiers

With the approval of the Polish high command, the company's emblem was changed to one showing Wojtek carrying a massive artillery shell.

DEATH

He had grown to become a symbol of the solidarity between Poland and Scotland. In March 2009, the Scottish Parliament held a reception in Wojtek's honor

AFTER WAR

1946
He was sent to Scotland with his brothers in arms

Once demobilization began, the question about where the bear should live arose. Should it be Iran or Poland? Or should he remain in Scotland?

Finally, Wojtek remained in Scotland's Edinburgh Zoo. There, he became one of the biggest attractions, and many veterans of the war would come back to see him

LEGEND: When the company landed in Naples in 1944, British Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery's courier Archibald Brown was helping to process the arrival. Brown called out the soldiers and spoke to each of them, except one. Corporal Wojtek was not responding. When Brown asked the other soldiers why Wojtek wasn't coming forward, a colonel said: "Well, he only understands Polish and Persian." Brown was then taken to a cage holding a full-grown Syrian brown bear, the unit's most popular member: Corporal Wojtek

THE DIFFICULTY IN BRINGING THE CUB TO ITALY

- Port officials in Egypt deny nod for wild animal to board a ship to Italy
- The soldiers improvised: They procured a permit from the head military office in Cairo and enlisted the bear to the company
- After becoming an official soldier, the bear was named Wojtek, meaning smiling warrior in Polish
- Wojtek had a service number, a rank and a pay book
- The trick worked and Wojtek was allowed on board

Blackout fears in US as drought hits generation

Production to dip 14% this year as the country grapples with acute water shortage after a debilitating cold wave

ENERGY

ST LOUIS: If it was an extended spell of rains that flooded the Indian mines, triggering an acute coal shortage and fanning the fears of blackouts, the US finds itself battling a drought that threatens to shut its hydel power projects.

After water levels at a California dam fell to historic lows this summer, the main hydropower plant it feeds was shut down. At the Hoover Dam in Nevada — one of the country's biggest hydropower generators — production is down by 25%. If extreme drought persists, federal officials say a dam in Arizona could stop producing electricity in coming years.

Severe drought across the West drained reservoirs this year, slashing hydropower production and further stressing the region's power grids. And as extreme weather becomes more common with climate change, grid operators are adapting to swings in hydropower generation. "The challenge is finding the right resource, or mix of resources, that can provide the same energy and power outputs as hydro," said Lindsay Buckley, a spokesperson for the California Energy Commission.

U.S. hydropower generation is expected to decline 14% this year compared with 2020, according to a recent federal forecast. The projected drops are concentrated in Western states that rely more heavily on hydropower, with California's production expected to fall by nearly half.

While California can face multi-year stretches of dry weather, the Pacific Northwest usually gets enough precipitation in the winter to recover and produce hydropower to export. But this year, the Northwest was also hit by extreme heat and less precipitation, according to Crystal Raymond, a climate change researcher at the University of Washington.

Meanwhile, China's largest provincial economy in its northeast rust belt warned of worsening power shortages on Monday, despite government efforts to boost coal supply and manage electricity use in a post-pandemic energy crisis hitting multiple countries. China's Liaoning province issued its second-highest level power shortage alert on Monday, the fifth in two weeks, warning the shortfall could reach nearly 5 gigawatts (GW).

Liaoning has been suffering widespread power cuts since mid-September. A level two power shortage alert indicates a demand gap of 10%-20% of total power demand.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Coldest lab condition

RESEARCH

Scientists have created the coldest conditions ever recorded, reaching just 38 trillionth of a degree warmer than absolute zero. While researching the wave properties of atoms, experts from the University of Bremen produced one of the 'coldest places in the universe' for a few seconds in the lab. Absolute zero - zero Kelvin, or -459.67°F - is the point at which atoms have minimal movement, and is the coldest temperature it is theoretically possible to reach. To get as close to this point as possible, the team manipulated a cloud of atoms to a point where it was at a 'virtual standstill'. For a few seconds these particles were so still the temperature lowered to 38 picokelvins (pK), which is 38 trillionth of a degree above absolute zero.

Remains of winery found

ARCHAEOLOGY

Israeli archaeologists on Monday uncovered a Byzantine-era, industrial-scale wine complex which produced some two million litres of the drink annually and was the world's "largest" such centre at the time. The facility in Yavne, south of Tel Aviv that was a Jewish settlement during biblical times and a key city after the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 CE, comprised five wine presses sprawling over a square km. The 1,500-year-old site covers warehouses for ageing and marketing the wine, kilns for preparing the clay amphorae used to store it and "tens of thousands of fragments and intact earthen jars", the Israel Antiquities Authority said of the "sophisticated" site. The produce was known as "Gaza and Ashkelon wine".

Earth likely to be hit by solar storm

SPACE

LONDON: A powerful solar storm was expected to hit Earth on Monday, sparking fears of havoc at power grids. The UK's Met Office and the US's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) forecast a coronal mass ejection (CME) – a massive expulsion of plasma from the Sun's corona (its outermost layer) at around 11 pm IST.

Possible effects of the solar storm, caused by the CME, are power grid fluctuations and orientation irregularities for spacecraft in the form of 'increased drag' on low-Earth orbiters.

The aurora – a natural light display in Earth's sky, also known as the Northern Lights – may also be visible as low as New York in the US and the north of England in the UK. Minor storms may continue into 12 October, before a fast wind from a coronal hole may arrive, perhaps continuing the rather active period of geomagnetic activity.

Residents elated as Sydney lockdown ends

COVID

SYDNEY: Elated Sydneysiders celebrated the end of almost four months of coronavirus lockdown on Monday, putting behind them a period of "blood, sweat and no beers" in Australia's largest city, which was a hotspot of infections.

Sydney's more than five million residents were subjected to a 106-day lockdown, designed to limit the march of the highly transmissible Delta variant. With new infections now falling and more than 70% of over-16s fully vaccinated, the city is dusting off the cobwebs.

From midnight pubs, restaurants and cafes began throwing open their doors to anyone who could prove they were vaccinated.

Across the city, shaggy-haired customers lined up outside hairdressers to get eyebrow-raising home cuts and dye jobs repaired.

Merck applies for EUA for its anti-Covid pill

VACCINE

WASHINGTON: US pharmaceutical giant Merck on Monday applied for emergency use authorization of its oral anti-Covid drug in the US, a major step towards finding a simple pill to treat the disease.

Merck has submitted the application for molnupiravir, which it said earlier this month was shown to reduce hospitalizations by 50%. It also prevented 100 percent of deaths compared to a placebo, but the sample size was relatively small and the figure can't yet be reliably extrapolated.

Merck said it was working "with regulatory agencies worldwide to submit applications for emergency use or marketing authorization in the coming months." "The extraordinary impact of this pandemic demands that we move with unprecedented urgency," said Robert Davis, the company's CEO.

"That is what our teams have done by submitting this application for molnupiravir to the FDA within 10 days of receiving the data," he added.

Aztec origins of John Dee mirror

HISTORY

An obsidian "spirit mirror" used by John Dee, an advisor to England's Elizabeth I, traces its origins to Aztec culture, a new study published in the journal Antiquity suggests. A Renaissance polymath whose interests ranged from astronomy to astrology, alchemy and math, Dee advised the queen from the start of her reign in 1558 to the 1570s. As court astrologer and scientific advisor, he advocated for overseas exploration and the establishment of colonies. Using a portable X-ray fluorescence scanner, the team measured the proportions of titanium, iron, strontium and other substances and compared them with those found in obsidian from Mexico. The scholars determined that Dee's mirror and one of the others originated in Pachuca, just northeast of Mexico City, while the third mirror and the slab came from Ucareo. Both regions were under Aztec control in the early 16th century. The Aztecs used obsidian for medicinal purposes and viewed its reflective surface as a shield against bad spirits.

European astronauts simulate life on Mars by holing up inside crater in Israeli desert

SPACE

MITZPE RAMON, ISRAEL: Inside a huge crater in Israel's sun-baked Negev desert, a team wearing space suits ventures forth on a mission to simulate conditions on Mars.

The Austrian Space Forum has set up a pretend Martian base with the Israeli space agency at Makhtesh Ramon, a 500-metre deep, 40 km wide crater. The six so-called "analogue astronauts" will live in isolation in the virtual station until the end of the month. "It's a dream come true," Israeli Alon Tenzer, 36, told AFP. "It's something we've been working on for years."

The participants — from Austria, Germany, Israel, the Netherlands, Portugal and Spain — all had to pass gruelling physical and psychological tests. They will conduct tests including on a drone prototype that functions without GPS, and on automated wind- and solar-powered mapping vehicles. The mission will also aim to study human behaviour and the effect of isolation on the astronauts.

"The group's cohesion and their ability to work together are crucial for surviving on Mars," said Gernot Groemer, the Austrian mission supervisor. "It's like a marriage, except in a marriage you can leave but on Mars you can't."

The Austrian Space Forum, a private organisation made up of aerospace specialists, has already organised 12 missions, the most recent in Oman in 2018.

The Israel project is part of mission Amadee-20, which was expected to kick off last year but was delayed due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

The forum has partnered with Israeli research centre D-MARS to construct the solar-powered base.

German astronaut Anika Mehlis, the only woman on the team, told AFP how happy she was to be part of the project.

"My father took me to the space museum when I was little," she said. "When I saw that the forum was looking for analogue astronauts, I told myself I had to apply."

Mehlis, a trained microbiologist, will study a scenario where bacteria from Earth infect potential life forms that may be found on Mars, saying this "would be a huge problem". Visually, the surrounding desert resembles the Red Planet with its stony wilderness and orange hues, though thankfully not in terms of atmospheric conditions.

"Over here, we have temperatures of about 25-30 degrees Celsius, but on Mars the temperature is minus 60 degrees Celsius and the atmosphere is not fit for breathing," said Groemer.

NASA envisions the first human mission to Mars will launch in 2030.

DR K SUDHAKAR, Minister for health & family welfare and medical education

Today, I am sorry to say this, lots of modern women in India want to stay single. Even if they get married, they don't want to give birth. They want surrogacy. So there is a paradigm shift in our thinking, which is not good.

MD PALLAVI, singer

It is unfortunate that our health minister said this. Proves that women have a long way to go before giving up the fight for equality. Remember, it's a woman's body and her choice.

KM CHAITANYA, film director

Sudhakar is considered to be someone who understands modern society and knows about women's rights. Despite all this, I'm not sure if he realised the implication of his statement. Reproduction is a private matter. Whether women want to marry or have children is their individual decision, the state doesn't have any business getting into it.

EXPRESS FEATURES

PRIVATE MATTERS, PUBLIC DEBATE

On Sunday, Dr K Sudhakar, minister for Health & Family Welfare and Medical Education, opened a pandora's box with his comment on 'modern women wanting to stay single and not have children.' Although he issued a clarification later on Monday, netizens were outraged, terming the remarks as being 'inappropriate', 'regressive' and 'sexist'. Here, Bengalureans share their thoughts.

Minister Dr K Sudhakar's remark on 'modern women not wanting to get married or have children' has outraged many. Bengalureans weigh in on the controversial comment

SOUMYADIP SINHA

SAMHITA ARNI, writer

It is disturbing to hear such statements from a person holding such power in the administration. What is the problem with women being single? I personally feel it is my right to make choices of my body and my life. I meet a lot of people who are questioning the value of marriage these days. We are seeing that marriage is a problematic institution for both men and women. They have limited choices in terms of careers and finances. The condition of the education system, healthcare and the climate crisis really makes me rethink as to whether I want to bring a child into the world.

ASHWINI NACHAPPA, athlete

There is some element of truth in women wanting to be single and financially independent. I would not say this is a disappointing trend but it is reality. As a society, we have changed completely. Wanting to be single may be the current phase in a society with changing dynamics. I don't think it is fair to say only modern women want to be single, even young rural women stand up for their rights.

KUBBRA SAIT, actor

Why are people in power spokespersons for women, their personal and professional choices? They celebrate women when it suits them... when we win at sports or go to space. But they choose to eclipse us and our being as a whole when it comes to our bodies and choices. When a politician chooses to speak at a public forum, he needs to realise his comments have a ripple effect. Mental health was the topic, and the leader chose to draw in his own thoughts to reduce us to baby-making machines. We need better leaders not better (as preconceived by our leader) mothers, wives or sisters.

CHETAN KUMAR, activist and actor

It is such a regressive statement. Why should women face the brunt of patriarchy via dowry/wedding expenses/curbed freedoms/sole parental responsibilities? If a man chooses to be single, it's perceived as his individual choice. But if a woman chooses to stay single, there's this talk about them not wanting to be part of a patriarchal institution.

SAINA JAYAPAL, communications professional

Instead of trying to blame women for everything, the minister should look at why women are choosing to not get married or have children. We've obviously gone beyond being just baby-making machines. But then again, he isn't wrong in what he said. Modern women don't want to do anything like before, but that doesn't mean it's wrong. If he wants to fix the problem, he should look at why women are apprehensive to embrace marriage and parenthood.

DR ANIL ABRAHAM, dermatologist and comedian

I created a caricature of a so-called 'modern woman', who goes by the name Modern Malathi and is 'the cause of all problems in India today.' The reel got over 1,300 views on social media within hours of uploading it. On a serious note, making such a statement comes from an immensely outdated concept. We have great respect for our leaders and we would like them to wake up to the way the world is right now.

FIT BIT

BADDHA HASTA TADASANA

(HANDS BOUND MOUNTAIN POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'baddha' means bound, 'hasta' means hand, 'tada' means mountain and 'asana' means pose. This pose helps with chakra alignment, spinal and nerve energies, circulation and expansion of the lungs which increases oxygenation of the blood. The grounding through the feet in mountain pose connects the body to the earth, and the hands above the head connect it to the spinal realm and universal energies.

STEPS

- Begin in Tadasana (Mountain Pose). Stand straight, keeping your arms at your side. Relax yourself with normal breathing.
- Make sure that your entire body is straight while retaining the pose.
- Inhaling, raise your both arms parallel backwards as per your convenience. You'll get a good stretch on your hands.
- Clasp your palms, while keeping your hands straight. Make sure your shoulders are not hunched.
- Your hips, torso and head should be in one line. Your arms must be straight. Move your gaze upwards.
- Your shoulders must be away from your ears, and your shoulder blades pressed firmly on your back.
- Your thighs should be engaged in such a way that they pull the kneecaps up.
- Straighten the legs, but don't lock your knees. A micro-bend in your knees is safer for your joints.
- Then, you can come to the original position with deep breathing (exhale).
- You can perform as many rounds as possible for you taking a break in between to relax.

BENEFITS

- Gives the belly a good stretch.
- Helpful to improve digestion.
- Gives the armpits and the shoulders a good stretch.
- Regular practice helps to relieve stress and anxiety.
- Good to enhance body posture.
- It also helps increase the capacity of the lungs.
- It is helpful in improving blood circulation.
- It is good to ease sciatica.

LIMITATIONS

- Beneficial to anyone who finds it difficult to stand for long.
- Those suffering from severe migraine or giddiness would find it a challenge.
- Weak leg muscles will not help you to stand for long.
- Avoid putting too much strain on the spine.

Oh, how I love you, dear, dear potholes!

THERE is a reason why potholes need to be loved. For all the lives they have claimed so far on Bengaluru's roads, potholes do not have malice towards anyone. They don't have a mind that can be influenced; there is no hatred in them; and they do not nurture deceitful strategies to put down anyone. And still they do! But please don't blame them.

They are there because they have been left to be there to get deeper and wider. They develop through degeneration when rain acts on the road surfaces laid with questionable material used to lay them.

Although potholes cannot be influenced, one must appreciate that they are absolutely secular and unbiased — they do not differentiate among faiths, castes, gender or background of humans who they kill or injure.

It just so happens that it is the two-wheeler rider who is most exposed to the threat of their existence on road surfaces. It just happens to be that way! Not the pothole's fault at all!

So, you mustn't blame the poor potholes. They are just there, like hungry open mouths, imaginably starving deep inside, and seemingly eyeing every human on a two-wheeler who passes by this degenerate Cyclops. Who knows, it probably even waters from the mouth at the very sight of motoring bipeds.

But you and I should know this: They are not like that at all! They are not even living beings to have such feelings. They never even intended to be there to claim lives or harm anyone — not even waiting to be driven or ridden into by human motorists.

I am saying this because every time a human dies or is injured due to a pothole, anger wells up within us. We spew out our anger at the authorities — like the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike, the Public Works Department or various other agencies — who are ever so ready with index fingers pointed at the other to deflect blame away from them. They defend well.

Lives lost, limbs broken, or rendered physically invalid? That is beside the point. In fact, we shouldn't even get there. Why should we?

I love motorists, because they love potholes. I say that because every time a pothole appears in front of them while they are on the move, they suddenly apply their brakes. See how much they love them? It is almost like a little child just darted across the road, and they apply brakes to save the kid. Sometimes they swerve to the right or left, and that is when a speeding vehicle from behind rams into them, causing injury or death.

But why blame the pothole? They never intend to kill or harm you. Blame it on the driver who was speeding behind you. In fact, like I said earlier, potholes don't have intentions.

But the unsuspecting speeding driver behind, too, never intended to crash into you. All this happened to save the poor, old pothole on the road to start with. Now, that's good intention on the part of humans, right? See, how potholes make us such empathetic and understanding individuals? We achieve that even at the cost of our life or limb!

And then, I love the civic authorities too. They are the epitome of love and understanding towards the dear potholes. Please do not miss how they look after them to ensure their longevity. They fill them up often, but allow them the proverbial cat's nine lives. How nice!

And when questioned about the number of potholes existing on the roads, they almost turn into a Schindler while listing them out.

Do you see how beneficial potholes are for us? We must love them!

'TALK' OF THE TOWN

This orthopeadic turns Zoom conversations into a weekly podcast series. Here's how he does it

ANILA KURIAN

THE use of digital communication grew exponentially during the pandemic. Like everyone else, Dr Ashish Philip Zachariah, too, used video conferencing app Zoom to connect with friends and family. Eventually, the senior specialist-orthopeadics at Aster RV Hospital, JP Nagar, realised that most of the topics they discussed always gave rise to new perspectives for him to think about.

After brainstorming with his childhood friend and marketing specialist Siddharth Unni, the duo started a podcast channel called 'The Odd Couple'. Started last September, the podcast had one episode releasing every weekend. But now that things are slowly opening up and everyone's getting busy with daily work, there's a new episode every fortnight.

Zachariah says, "We're almost done with two seasons now — 36 episodes — and we're planning a third season now. We've been discussing a spectrum of topics, including nepotism, the concept of a national language, karma, work-life balance, mental health, vaccination and cryptocurrency, and sustainability."

By doing more of these episodes and with the listener base growing — two lakh listeners since its launch to be precise — they've also included experts to join the chat. Some of the names include wildlife conservationist and activist Vivek Menon, American war photojournalist Thomas Hurst, music director Prashant Pillai and so on.

"Everything is unscripted, so basically all you get to hear are two-three people having a casual conversation and sharing their perspective about a certain topic. There might be point of views within that conversation which one may agree or disagree with. But our idea isn't to tell you what is right or wrong; it's for you to decide what you want to believe in," he explains.

Busy with his hospital rounds through the day, it's only after 8 pm, when he returns from work, that Zachariah and Unni work on the podcast. "We record the episode, edit and then post it on various platforms. The software available today makes it so easy for us to compress and edit the conversations to make it podcast-worthy," he explains, adding that all recordings are done remotely due to the pandemic.

He points out that some of the topics discussed during the podcast helped him during the difficult times of the pandemic. "It felt amazing to get out of the rut and have something joyful to work on after days of just gloom and despair. Unni and I both have creative minds and we're happy to have found a new hobby," he shares.

The most important takeaway for the doctor is handling emotions. "There's so much depression and anxiety each of us is going through. But these conversations just help us express some of our fears. We're hoping that it will be beneficial to those who need some cheering," he says.

A TIME FOR NEW BEGINNINGS

IN the north, it's called shubharambh. In Kannada, it's hosa aarambha or arunodaya, which means sunrise. We've coined different terms in different languages, but the sentiment remains the same: auspicious beginnings.

On the ninth day of Navaratri, south Indians keep their tools of trade (books, laptops, musical instruments) in front of the Goddess Saraswati, seeking her blessings.

They do not touch these until the next day. On Vijayadashami, the 10th day, they pick them up and use them again, a symbol that when you start anything on this day, you will continue to pursue it well all year round.

As music educators, this is one of the busiest times of year. Here are some of the reasons why we encourage parents of young children, as well as adult learners, to use this time to start learning music.

Finding discipline

Traditions help build consistency, and it's the best way to grow in any field. When you commit to a new beginning along with thousands of others across the country, it is an opportunity to take a bold step in a new direction.

Connecting to cultural roots

Music and culture are deeply interlinked. Everything from the kinds of songs we learn to the languages and styles we learn them in, music tells us more about the region and time it came from. Starting to learn music during Vijayadashami also gives students an opportunity to learn about the tradition.

Chance to re-set

India is a country of diverse traditions, so there are many different stories behind why Vijayadashami became so significant. What's common between them all is that they represent a transition from darkness to light, and ignorance to knowledge. And it is always nice to have a reminder that even if we have been living in darkness for years together, all it takes is one decision to turn on the light.

It is true that we are always one big decision away from a completely new life, and that we don't necessarily have to wait for one big occasion to come along. However, we are all guilty of spending the majority of the year waiting for a reason to finally take some time out for ourselves and reconnect with something we love — art, music and dance. Here's a chance to take a big new step with thousands of others across the country.

Health of a relationship

OCTOBER 10 marked World Mental Health Day and this year, with its theme of mental health in an unequal world, it was especially apt to think of how unequal spaces for the people in a relationship can affect the mental health of everyone in the relationship.

In the first place, a few things affect our mental wellbeing like the state of our relationships — romantic, familial, friendships, work and even social relationships. No person is an island, and our network of relationships are central to our wellbeing. If a loved one is sick or otherwise not doing well, we are not likely to be in the best of mental health ourselves. We would likely be worried sick ourselves, and when we are in situations of caring for anyone on an ongoing basis, that too has a direct impact on how we feel in ourselves. It really is not about the time that caring for someone takes, but about the thinking, worrying, fearing, planning and all the other mental tasks that one does.

Under ordinary circumstances, when everyone is generally healthy and physically well, relationships can be awesome and a great boost for one's mental health. It is ideally a safe space, an affirming space, an encouraging and motivating space for each person in the relationship to have a healthy sense of their own self, a place where each person can express their needs, expect their needs to be met and even when their needs cannot be met, that it is respected and accommodated in some fashion.

Thing is, no loving relationship just happens between adults. It is created between them, by them. Relationships are quite literally a labour of love. Being able to hold up love and showing it through trust, respect and space, even when times are tough is what makes a relationship a safe space. Relationships need a healthy balance of closeness and space, of togetherness and individuality, of communication, celebration and quiet times.

Relationships can weather much tough terrain, but if trust or respect or communication gets hurt, relationships themselves become tough terrain. It is even more so if the relationship was not quite an equal space for the people in it, and for all the talk of people being better halves or other fractions, the reality is that equal relationships are often not the norm. Social conditioning, gender-based norms, community practices, economic or other disparities make relationships an unequal space. Distribution of power is lopsided, as is distribution of labour, and with that, the impact of the relationship on the mental health of each person in the relationship. In relationships where there are dependencies, especially financial or social dependencies, these power imbalances are all the more striking and with that the risks to mental health.

When we speak of mental health in an unequal world, can we really do so without acknowledging how unequal relationships often are in our homes and communities? Can we afford to ignore the impact of such inequality on our mental health?

DARSHAN'S KRANTI TO BE LAUNCHED ON OCTOBER 15

Muhurath of V Harikrishna's directorial, bankrolled by the Media House Studio banner, will take place on Vijayadashami

A SHARADHAA

DARSHAN fans have been waiting with bated breath ever since Kranti, the actor's 55th film, was announced in September.

Directed by V Harikrishna, the film will finally be launched on October 15 with a muharath ceremony on the auspicious occasion of Vijayadashami. The shooting will commence soon.

The mass commercial entertainer, produced by Shylaja Nag and B Suresha under the Media House Studio banner, will be made in Kannada and will be released in Tamil, Telugu, Malayalam, and Hindi.

The director, production house, and Darshan earlier made Yajamana, which turned out to be a huge hit, and it has set a huge expectation for their secondary collaboration. The makers recently released a multilingual poster, which received a good response from the fans. Director V Harikrishna is also doubling up as music director. The team is yet to reveal more details about the film's cast and the crew.

Darshan's last outing was Roberrt, which was declared a box office hit. The actor now rares to begin shooting for Kranti.

SUDEEP IS A DIRECTOR'S DELIGHT: SHIVA KARTHIK

Kotigobba 3 will finally release on October 14

CE FEATURES

Director Shiva Karthik couldn't have asked for a better debut. He has directed Sudeep in his very first film Kotigobba 3. The makers were holding on to the film for the past three years, and are finally releasing it on Oct 14

"The whole world went through a difficult time in the past two years due to Covid-19, and no one could erase all the hardships we faced. All we had to do is wait patiently for the right time to release the film," says Shiva Karthik, adding, "It is a great feeling to know that our film will be finally out this week."

"To be honest, as a newcomer, I didn't have any previous experience to bring to the table. I am grateful to Kichcha Sudeep sir and producer Surappa Babu. The producer was the one who introduced me to Sudeep sir, trusted I have it in me to direct the film. That made everything possible for a newcomer like me," Shiva says.

The first-timer says that Sudeep is a director's delight. "The knowledge that Sudeep has about cinema is contagious. The abundant knowledge he has gained in his 26 years of cinema journey has helped him to think differently, and he keeps exploring. Whenever people ask me about Sudeep, I say he is a combination of Rajinikanth and Kamal Haasan - class and mass."

Directing this one film got him an experience of working in 10 films, says the debutant, who promises that Kotigobba 3 is a mass fun-filled entertainer.

"The sequel is a continuation of Kotigobba 2, directed by KS Ravi Kumar, which had an open ending. Sudeep's story idea had all the potential for a sequel," says Shiva Karthik, who has written the film's screenplay. "Kotigobba 2 had Sudeep playing the role of Satya and Shiva. I am introducing a third character called Ghost in Kotigobba 3, who is like a modern-day Robinhood. This film again has an open ending that has a potential for Kotigobba 4," he adds.
